LOOK OUT FOR FIRE!

To Theater Owners, Managers and Whom It May Concern

This is to certify that I have equipped the Windsor theater in this city with the Lindgren stationary chemical fire engines. After examining all other systems of fire protection and after repeated tests of the Lindgren stationary chemical fire engine and upon the recommendation of the insurance underwriters I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the cheapest and most powerful as well as perfect fire protection for theaters ever invented. In my opinion every theater and opera house in the United States as well as Europe should be equipped with these chemical fire engines and thus save the loss of life and thousands of dollars in property

Respectfully

To Whom It May Concern

This is to certify that I George A Burbank witnessed the exhibition of the Lindgren chemical engine test to-day, and as I have witnessed a great many such chemical tests in New York City Boston, Mass and other large cities in the East I hereby state that it was the quickest and most satisfactory test and was also pronounced so by two of our councilmen and all the citizens present, and I will also state that the time of applying the chemical was left entirely to me and I did not give the word until the fire was well started, for in other tests I have witnessed they have always put the chemical on the minute the fire was started and water would answer just as well as there was nothing but the flame started and the wood not charred and I take great pleasure in recommending the Lindgren as far superior to any other chemical engine on the market.

WASHINGTON WAITS.

The President's Proclamation Anxiously Looked for.

RETURNS HAVE BEEN DELIVERED

Harrison's Little Sarcasm About the Haste to Hold Office.

GOSSIP ABOUT THE SENATORSHIPS

Neither the Eastern Nor the Western Sections of the State Has Yet Been Able to Agree Upon a Candidate.

WASHINGTON Dec. 3—J W Robinson, who brought the Washington returns to the president, says he expects the proclamation of admission to be issued Tuesday or early Wednesday morning He told the president that the Washington people wanted a separate proclamation and also that they were in a great hurry, and the president remarked that he presumed that a great many of the most anxious were men who would hold office in the new state government

OPENING OF THE LEGISLATURE

OLYMPIA, Wa, Nov 3—Private dispatches received from Washington say that the president will probably issue his proclamation as to the state of Washington on Wednesday next If this be so the inauguration ceremonies will take place on Monday, the eleventh inst.

Messrs Brents Stockslager and Dunbar are registered at the Carlton The legislature is supposed to meet on the sixth, but as the lieutenant governor cannot be sworn before the Monday following it is doubtful whether any business can be transacted until he takes his seat

THE SENATORSHIP

Gossip With Members of the Legislature on the Way to Olympia.

TACOMA, Wash, Nov 3.—The senatorial fight waxes hotter and hotter To-day Governor Squire came over from Seattle to meet the senatorial committee of Pacific railways, and a very friendly meeting took place in the Tacoma hotel between the ex governor and Mr Walter J. Thompson Both gentlemen expressed their personal friendships for one another and stated that if they could not secure the election they were in favor of the other man Mr Thompson stated emphatically that while he was a Pierce county man and believed Pierce county was entitled to the nomination no action on his part, while a member of the senate if elected should ever be used to injure the development of King county but that he would try to represent the whole state Ex Governor Squire repeated these sentiments The meeting was a most cordial one and the friends of both these candidates were encouraged in the idea that in any event there would be no discrimination against either county, no matter which man captured the legislature

The feeling against the candidature of General Sprague is growing in this county There is no question of his defeat and the general public are more than ever convinced that his supporters are leading a forlorn hope He can have no support from the country east of the mountains, and the Puget sound delegation outside of the three men of the Pierce county delegation who endeavored to put the rule on the other three members (one being absent) are in favor of giving Mr Thompson the greatest possible show to develop his strength There is no doubt but that the fight is between Thompson and Squire for the western senatorship and if the men east of the mountains do not cease their differences both may be elected on the first ballot, leaving that section without representation That, however would not be serious as the Sound country has so large an interest in the development of Eastern Washington that if both senators were elected from this side the country east of the Cascades would still be well served

Your correspondent is not quoting his own views but those of a large part of the delegation which have been in Tacoma today on their way to the legislature and who have been interviewed by him There are so many dissensions east of the mountains that unless they speedily unite on one candidate the possibility of two Western Washington senators is anything but remote

The delay in the issue of the president's proclamation is likely to have a very important bearing on the forthcoming legislature Lieutenant Governor Laughton cannot take his seat until the Monday following the proclamation and in the meantime the legislature meets on Wednesday and will have to elect a temporary president This temporary president may nominate the committees and the senate confirm them without any reference to the lieutenant governor and there may be trouble between Governor Laughton and the temporary president Members of the senatorial committee on Pacific railroads have telegraphed the president to relieve the state of Washington from this embarrassing situation

The senatorial committee have spent the day here and traveled over a large part of the city with whose progress they express themselves as delighted They leave in the morning for Victoria and will spend a few hours in Seattle on their return and will then return to Tacoma, reaching Portland on Thursday morning

SENATOR FRYE TALKS

In His Opinion the Ambition of Blaine Is Now Being Realized

TACOMA Wash Nov 3—In an interview to-day Senator Frye made the surprising statement that in his opinion the New England states would never be accorded the presidency Blaine he said, would never again stand for the presidency and in 1884 would have preferred to occupy the position of secretary of state to the candidacy for the higher office His ambition is now being realized in shaping the policy of the United States so as to create closer relations with the Central and South American republics This accomplished he will not care for the presidency in 1892 Senator Frye takes an especial interest in the Pan American congress having introduced a bill in the upper chamber four years ago, of similar provisions, that was defeated in the house of representatives. The object of both the bills was to receive an intelligent delegation of the Southern countries, and by showing to them our resources and great ness impress their minds with the fact that we are the foremost of the world's republics

Continuing, the senator said that the coming congress would repeal the tax on tobacco Many more changes of like character would be made if the strong democratic minority in the house did not defeat them

THE GUATEMALA REVOLUTION.

It Consisted of Two Insurgent Colonels and 200 Deluded Followers

SAN FRANCISCO Nov 3—The reported uprising in Guatemala has caused great excitement among a number of firms here who do business with that country. Letters now received from there state that the reported revolution was of a milder order than first stated A former resident of Guatemala, now here, when asked if he had learned any particulars, replied "I have here a bundle of letters from Guatemala, the latest bear date the 17th ult. and the substance of them all when mentioning this petty outbreak of a few deluded peons amounts to this October 5 h a couple of hundred men of the looting, freebooter kind, under the lead of Colonel Hippolito Ruano and Colonel Jose Marie Reina Barrios pillaged the little town of Mataquescuintla in the eastern part of Guatemala, near Santa Rosa. This Colonel Barrios is a nephew of the late President Barrios, who was killed a couple of years ago at the battle of Chialchuapa, in the war with the government of San Salvador. This insurgent colonel is a restless sort of free lance, whom it does not always require a grievance to put on the war path There are plenty of them in the tropics but railroads, public schools and foreign intercourse are thinning them out Well, this little band of rioters held the town with the long Indian name for a couple of days waiting for reinforcements, which never came The government troops arrived promptly, however, swooped down on them, corralled a little mob, and nearly all were taken prisoners Colonel Ruano and another officer were turned over for trial by court martial while Colonel Barrios and Colonel Herrera, a former cabinet officer, were sent to the city of Guatemala where they are now lodged in jail Colonel Ruano was shot two days afterwards by order of the court martial, and he deserved all he received," said the narrator, for two years before he was pardoned by President Barrillos after an unsuccessful attempt at the same kind of popular uprising The deluded followers of Barrios and Ruano were dispersed to their homes, and so ended the fiasco "

NO TROUBLE AT ALL

WASHINGTON, Nov 3—The Guatemalan minister to-day received the following cable from the president of Guatemala

GUATEMALA, Nov 2—There is no trouble at all here. Everything is quiet The relations among Central American governments are most friendly Rumors of a revolution are only spread by enemies of Guatemala who are never satisfied, even with the present remarkable progress of the republic Please publish emphatic denials of such malicious rumors (Signed) BARRILLOS.

Particulars of the Loss of the Whaling Bark Ohio.

SAN FRANCISCO Nov 3—Captain Gifford of the bark Ohio, which was lost in the spring, was a passenger on the whaler Howland from Alaska to-day, and he furnished the particulars of the loss of his vessel May 20 he was caught in the ice and the Ohio was stove in Capt Gifford and his crew remained with the vessel while there was any hope but on the morning of May 22 she went ashore at Nunivak island Her fate was then settled On one side of her was ground ice and on the other side floe ice and no time was lost in getting away from her As soon as she struck four boats were manned which were scantily provisioned The men saved nothing but the clothing which they wore They had to work their way through four miles of ice to the open sea where they found the bark Ocean Captain Marvin took the men in and they were afterwards distributed throughout the fleet, Gifford returning on the Ocean

When the Ocean arrived off Point Barrow in the latter part of July there was considerable ice in sight but it all drifted toward the north and it is presumed that the whales went with it for they were afterward very scarce

LANDS IN MONTANA.

The Difficulties Between Miners and the Northern Pacific.

TACOMA'S STEPS TOWARD MORALITY

Early Closing of Saloons Shuts Up the Variety Theaters.

SKELETONS OF CUSTER'S MEN FOUND

Grand Ronde Valley Citizens Grant Hunt Another Year to Extend His Railroad to That Section and Earn the Subsidy.

ST PAUL Minn, Nov 3—Some papers of Montana have been attempting to make political capital over the prospective difficulties between the Northern Pacific and the mining men It is charged that the Northern Pacific is attempting a gigantic steal or land grab in trying to secure to itself certain mineral lands specially exempted in the grant to the company. Major A G Postlethwaite, speaking for Land Commissioner Lamborn, who is out of the city explained the situation as follows

The original grant to the Northern Pacific specified that all mineral lands be exempt from the grant and that the road had no right or title to them The surveyor general made report on the law, but in the nature of things could not report in a general way as it is a practical impossibility to prospect such lands thoroughly The claim of the Northern Pacific is simply this That if a mine be discovered on its land the burden of proof that the land is more valuable for its minerals than for anything else rests upon the claimant, and not upon the railroad, that is to say it claims a right to all lands not reported as mineral until conclusive proof is furnished that they are mineral lands In many cases it has deeded lands to various people, and the deeds have been transferred and retransferred If the road was compelled to surrender its title to any land just because some fellow comes along and says it is mineral, the titles to a vast amount of property between Duluth and the Pacific coast would be imperiled The company claims therefore, that if a man wants to locate a mine on any part of its granted lands he must furnish absolute proof that it is more valuable as mineral than as agricultural land "

As for any political motives, they are ridiculed. Even Mohler, of the Manitoba road, who cannot be considered a warm friend of the Northern Pacific, laughed when it was suggested that politics has any connection with the Northern Pacific's position.

IN THE INTEREST OF HUMANITY.

Tacoma Enforces the Ordinance Requiring Saloons to Close at 11 O'Clock.

TACOMA Nov 3—The new ordinance closing saloons at 11 o'clock went into effect to night, and there are large crowds of dry and thirsty souls waiting around the back-doors trying to get a chance for a drink. The ordinance is not likely to be operative for more than a few days, as the chairman of the street committee who is the author of the ordinance and who is responsible for the horrible state of the streets, leaves for the East early this week. To day H H Cline paid $2229 50 in salaries for the National and Comique theaters and closed both places, owing to the ordinance requiring the closing of saloons at 11 o'clock. The ordinance prohibiting the employment of women in any other capacity around the theater excepting as actresses or members of the orchestra, which is before the mayor for his signature, will if it becomes a law, completely annihilate the variety business in this city as managers are unanimous in the statement that none of them could make expenses when closing at 11 o clock with no "girls" tolerated in the boxes during the evening Ninety three persons lose their employment by this action and the pay roll of the National foots up to $7000 since its opening three weeks ago. There is invested in the building $10 000, which will hereafter be a constant expense to its owners, it being estimated that the employes of the variety theaters spend at least 75 per cent. of their weekly wages, and as most of this class will now seek employment in other cities the closing withdraws about $7000 a month from circulation

BURYING CUSTER'S SOLDIERS.

After Thirteen Years Their Whitened Bones Rest Under the Sod.

FORT CUSTER Nov 3—General Brisbane is having the exact spot on which each of Custer's men fell marked with a stake driven deeply into the ground. Yesterday in setting the stakes the men came upon the skeletons of four of Custer's soldiers who had never been buried. Scout Campbell first discovered them To-day four officers were sent up with orders to decently bury the men on the exact spot where they fell, and mark their graves

Captain French's company now at Custer's battle field erecting tombstones over the men massacred at Fort Phil Kearney, in 1867 will bury the Custer men with the honors of war, thus giving them decent interment at last after thirteen years.

HATZFELDT'S PRICE.

Huntington's Son-in-Law Costs Him $2,000,000.

CRONIN CONSIDERED AS A SPY

Wild Texan Steers Create Great Excitement in the Streets of Kansas City—The Cherokee Indians and Their Lands.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The price at which Prince Hatzfeldt was purchased by Huntington has just come to light, according to a cable to the Sun. Before the prince's wedding with Clara Huntington, C. P. Huntington deposited with his prospective son-in-law's trustees $1,750,000 in bonds of the United States and other gilt-edged securities which he guaranteed to be first class. According to the articles of agreement entered into between Huntington and Hatzfeldt the income from this source is to be divided between the prince and his wife, each to receive his or her share independently of the other. The income is to be paid to each just the same in case of divorce or separation. Huntington also agreed to pay at the London Westminster bank on the day before the wedding $100,000 to persons designated by the prince and $150,000 more within six weeks, also to persons designated by the prince, who are, of course, his creditors. The prince, on his part, agrees to make over to his trustees all his property and estates that are not entailed, and in case of death of either husband or wife, the income from the $1,750,000 is to go to the children, if any, who may be the issue of the match. As the prince did not have any unentailed property, the total cost of Miss Huntington's titled husband comes to $2,000,000.

MONEY FOR CRONIN'S MURDERERS.

People Who Still Believe That He Was a Spy and Arch Traitor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—At a meeting of Irishmen held at McCoy's hotel to-day $376 was collected for the purpose of seeing that prisoners now on trial for their lives before Judge McConnell, be supplied with means to make a proper and legal defense. About one hundred men were present, most of them looking as if they needed all the money they had for themselves and families. A resolution was adopted that a committee be appointed to solicit subscriptions from Irishmen to create a fund for their defense. While not going into the question of the guilt or innocence of the prisoner the meeting desired that "justice be allowed freedom of action." The meeting was presided over by P. V. Fitzpatrick, who keeps a small store, on the south side. Friends of Dr. Cronin, who are arranging for a public gathering to add to the prosecution fund also held a meeting to-day. After various committees had reported, P. W. Dunne said, "Dr. O'Reilly and Colonel Atkinson, of Detroit, have gone to Ireland. It is not possible that they had no object in view, and I move we send a cablegram to Parnell at once, to advise him of their true mission. The opposition to the murderers of Dr. Cronin and the arch-fiend back of it all, have sent them there to poison the minds of our race. They are now trying to find support in the old country, and if we don't let our countrymen know who they are and what they are there for, we will suffer for it."

P. E. O'Connor coincided with this view, and added that four-fifths of the Irish people are so mystified that they believe there was justification for the murder of Cronin, and that he was a spy. These men, who have gone to Ireland know what they are about and will get aid, either of sentimental or financial kind, to buy the acquittal of the tools of the arch-fiend.

The suggestion was opposed on the ground that, as the coming gathering is to be a celebration of revolutionary measure, "Manchester Martyr's" communication from it to Parnell might embarrass him. The chairman ruled further discussion of the matter out of order, notwithstanding which J. Corcoran got up and said: "Nine-tenths of the Irish people think that Cronin was a spy, and it is the result of the work of those who are getting up opposition. These dynamiters—"

Here Mr. Corcoran was shut off on the point that so far as known there had been no dynamiting by Chicago men.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—A Winnipeg special to the Daily News gives the text of Convict Mills's version of the alleged confession of Martin Burke. Little additional to what has already been published is developed, except the statement that Coughlin got Burke loaded with liquor and then informed him lots had been drawn and it had fallen upon Burke, with others, to remove Cronin as a spy. The night of Cronin's disappearance Burke, Coughlin, O'Sullivan, Cooney and Beggs were in the cottage. Kunze was to bring the doctor to the cottage. Gory details of the supposed scene in the cottage are given.

STEERS ON THE RAMPAGE.

Kansas City the Scene of Frontier Excitement.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—A scene of frontier excitement occurred in the streets of this city to-day. It lasted for five hours and during that time a herd of stampeded Texas steers had possession of the thoroughfares in an area about two miles square. A number of persons were tossed on the horns of the infuriated beasts, and before the herd was corralled again, eight of their number had been killed.

At 8 o'clock this morning a party of cowboys started with a drove of cattle from the stock yards, bound for Clay county, across the Missouri river. The steers refused to cross the bridge, and upon being urged, stampeded. Then the excitement begun. The herd had proceeded down Bluff street for two squares at a clattering pace, clearing all before it, when four of the cowboys cut around the block and headed it off. Before the cattle were driven back and corraled at the river's bank, eight of them had broken away and started on a tour of the city. At Broadway and Bluff street one of the cowboys succeeded in lassoing one of the refractory animals, but could not control him. The steer started for the river at the bluff about twenty-five feet over the river. The cowboy refused to go further, but the pony and the steer plunged over into the water. Both swam ashore uninjured. In the meantime the mounted police were called out. Two of them chased one animal as far as Nineteenth and Harrison streets. This was in the fashionable residence portion of the city, and occurring just when churchgoers thronged the streets, created great excitement. One pedestrian, who was not quick enough in seeking a place of safety, was tossed by the steer, but not seriously hurt. Finally a bullet from Sergeant McVeagh's revolver laid the fiery animal low and ended the chase. At Eighteenth and Grand avenue a cowboy killed another steer with his Winchester. At Fifth and Bluff streets one of the unruly beasts butted a tramp into unconsciousness, who had sought the warmth of the brickyard there for his morning nap, but did not injure him severely. The steer fell among the debris of the yard, and the pursuing cowboy put a bullet in his heart.

At Eighteenth and Walnut streets a negro barber thought he would stop another of the stampeded steers by shaking his apron at him, and he was tossed in the air for his pains. At Fourth and Walnut streets another steer started up the cable track with his head down. It either did not see an approaching car, or else did not propose to be stopped by it when it did see it. It butted the grip car full in the front. The shock killed the animal outright and no one was seriously hurt. Finally each escaped steer was killed or injured.

THE CHEROKEE INDIANS.

An Eloquent Message From Their President About Selling Their Land.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—The Times Tahlequah special contains a copy of the annual message to be delivered by Chief Mayes tomorrow to the Cherokee outlet. It recommends the lands be not ceded to the government of the United States, except it be done by a change in the constitution of the Cherokee nation. He holds the constitution forbids the sale to anyone for any reason, quotes that section of the constitution and comments on it at length. He accuses the government of dealing unfairly with the Indians who had been promised they should hold their present lands, when they were removed there, "as long as the grass should grow and the rivers flow." He reviews the different treaties made between the Indians and the government, and states his belief the government has no right to force the Indians to sell the lands. The change in the constitution can be made only by submitting the question to a vote of the nation, and that will have to be done by the council's authorizing Chief Mayes to submit it.

ACCIDENT ON THE A., T. & S. F.

Two Passenger Coaches Roll Down an Embankment.

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Nov. 3.—The south bound Santa Fe passenger train was wrecked this morning south of Brownwood. The two rear chair cars were thrown from the track and rolled down a fifteen-foot embankment, finally landing bottom side up. They were full of passengers, who were piled together with chairs lying on top of them. They screamed for help, and windows had to be broken open to get them out. Twenty passengers were injured, four fatally. T. B. Jones, of Belleville, Ill., was left at Zephyr in a dying condition. Mrs. Henry Mason, of Austin, and A. W. Doud and E. E. George, of Friedland, are a few of those fatally injured.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN.

Lawyers Spend Their Time Discussing the Question of His Insanity.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—George Francis Train has been up again in the probate court on the question of Train's insanity. His counsel asked yesterday for a postponement until expert medical testimony could be obtained. The court said it did not propose to have the matter drag along unreasonably. If Train is insane the petition should be dismissed, but if he is simply an erratic crank he should be returned to jail until he satisfied the claim against him, or gives the requisite bonds. Edwards, counsel for Dr. Spillar, who procured Train's arrest, claims that Train's insanity must be such as to render him so insane he cannot appreciate what an oath means. The hearing was postponed one week.

A HUNGARIAN RIOT.

The Chief of Police and an Officer of McKeesport, Pa., Perhaps Fatally Stabbed.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Nov. 3.—Late last night a riot occurred among a number of Hungarian laborers, and Chief of Police Robinson and Officer McQuade were probably fatally injured. Robinson was stabbed in the head and about the arms and hands, while McQuade received three ugly wounds in the back and neck.

When the officers appeared the Hungarians charged upon them, and but for the timely arrival of other officers they would have been murdered. Four of the rioters were arrested, and after a desperate fight they were placed in the lockup. The Hungarians were celebrating a wedding, and had been drinking all evening.

In the meantime the police had been notified, and arrived just as the Ong Tong men commenced to emerge from their stronghold. SECRETARY RUSK'S ANNUAL REPORT.

The Importance of Agriculture Clearly Set Forth—Plans Prepared and Appropriations Asked for Next Year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The annual report of the secretary of agriculture deals at length with certain plans for thorough organization of the department and suggests several new features in the interest of the development of agriculture. The report calls attention to the fact that the first efforts toward reorganization were hampered because of the fact that appropriations for the current fiscal year were made entirely upon the basis of the old organization, no account being taken of the entire change in the states' government. The secretary anticipates a portion of his plan of reorganization in the estimates for the forthcoming fiscal year, $1,359,000, and says the aggregate sum asked for in his estimate must not be measured by what is past, but by what a great agricultural country should do toward sustaining, protecting and promoting the calling which lies at the foundation of its prosperity and power.

A striking contrast is drawn between this amount and the appropriations for agriculture made by those countries, which, the report says, "are the most active competitors of the American farmers in the world's market." A comparison shows that Great Britain appropriates for agriculture $1,150,000, Germany $2,850,000, Brazil $2,000,000, for agriculture and mines, France $8,000,000, and Austria more than $4,000,000.

The problem of getting the results of work done by the department more promptly before the people has been solved by the establishment of a new division, which furnishes promptly to the agricultural and commercial press a synopsis of the main points of every bulletin and report published.

The division of statistics is dwelt on at some length.

Of the crop reporting system, he says. "While approximate, it is in danger of becoming discredited by the popular acceptance of its results as exact in precision and absolute in its authority. It should be remembered they are not conclusions of a thorough census—that they are consolidations of local estimates of agricultural experts and are intended as a foil to the interested, biased and untruthful statements that speculators issue to mislead victims."

The rapid development of agriculture in the Rocky mountain districts, the secretary says, "will surprise the Eastern states with new views of the wealth and progress of the great American desert of the recent past." Special suggestions in regard to this division are extension of local statistical work and enlargement of the corps of state statisticians by the appointment of one in every state. A comprehensive plan of agricultural surveys of the states and territories is also suggested to be pushed rapidly as available means will permit. The intention is expressed to adopt some methods by which county correspondence can be utilized to secure a representation of the department at state and county fairs.

The condition of the sugar industry is reviewed in detail and results declared to be of a mixed character, in some cases yielding well and in other cases proving disappointing. Special attention is to be given to the development of varieties of sorghum containing a higher proportion of available sugar. Important progress has already been made in this direction. Many localities in the United States, especially in the North and on the Pacific coast, are known to be specially suitable to the production of the sugar beet, rich in saccharine matter. The interest in this subject by the successful experiments in California will be met by the publication during the coming winter of a full report on the beet sugar industry in the United States.

The botanical department is to be specially occupied in an effort to solve the problem of increasing the forage yield of 300,000,000 acres of arid region outside of possible irrigation by the promoting of the productiveness of the grasses now growing there.

In regard to textile fibers, the question now occuping the attention of the department is the utilization of flax, jute, ramie and other fibers.

The report urges the duty of the government to assume more definite supervision of such forest areas as are still owned by it, and as occupy positions of importance in the regulation of waterflow and other climatic conditions, and emphasizes the importance of the relations which the forests bear to the problem of irrigation in arid lands, and of their immense annual products.

A special investigation was ordered a few months ago through the pomological division to secure information as to fruits grown naturally in the unsettled portions of the country, and to collect specimens of them as an aid to determining the most suitable varieties of our cultivated kinds for propagation in that vast region.

The subject of agricultural organizations is dwelt upon earnestly, their astonishing growth during the past few years being cited as strong evidence of the growth of a spirit of self-help among farmers. Farmers' institutes are referred to particularly as one of the greatest movements in the history of agricultural education, represented by our system of agricultural colleges and experiment stations. The secretary recommended, without going into details, that the department should be empowered to afford aid and encouragement to this work.

In regard to the bureau of animal industry, pleuro-pneumonia is first noticed, the situation being regarded as most encouraging. The disease is now effectually under control and restricted to King and Queens counties in New York state, to New Jersey and a limited section in each of the states of Pennsylvania and Maryland. A careful review of the field, and the greater width of the arrangements made for the supervision of limited districts still infected, justify, in the secretary's opinion, the most sanguine hopes in regard to the eradication of the disease. Texas fever is generally spread through the channels of interstate commerce, and therefore can only be effectually controlled by the federal government, hence the necessity of legislation, which shall be ample and clearly defined.

The language used by Secretary Rusk in regard to a national meat inspection law is pointed and vigorous. The necessity for inspection at the time of slaughter, he says, is first, to enable the authorities to promptly locate any cattle disease centers, and secondly, to avoid the anomaly of leaving an inspection of our own meat products to the officials of other countries, thus giving foreign governments some show of reason for the claim that they have better opportunities for learning of disease among American cattle than are enjoyed by our own government. Authority and means are also desired to enable the department to exercise a close supervision of the economic side of the cattle markets, the characteristics of stock commanding the highest prices, variations as to age, weight, quality and all facts bearing on the cattle industry which will enable the bureau to supply to farmers such information as it is impossible for them to obtain for themselves.

Sheep and wool receive special consideration in the report. The growth of the mutton interest is referred to as one to be greatly encouraged. As to wool growing, the reduction of the tariff in 1883 is earnestly deplored. To it is attributed the great reduction in the number of sheep, which has since then fallen off by about 7,000,000 head, while the importance of wool has increased from 78,350,651 pounds in 1884 to 126,487,729 pounds the past year.

Figures are submitted showing the importance of agriculture, which produces annually a yield of nearly $4,000,000,000, employing on 5,000,000 farms 10,000,000 persons, representing a population of 30,000,000 people, while the value of live stock alone is estimated at $2,507,000,000. Referring to agricultural depression the report does not undertake the delicate duty of legislators in diagnosing cases and analyzing proposed panaceas, but the right of the farmer to the fullest enjoyment compatible with the rights of his fellow-citizens, of the benefits of the protective system, which is rock-rooted in the principles of the republican party is earnestly insisted upon. For all such articles as our own soil can produce the farmer justly asks for protection which will insure to him all the benefits of our home market.

The secretary closes his report with this earnest exhortation. The great nations of Europe strain every nerve to make science the handmaid of war. Let it be the glory of the American people to make science the handmaid of agriculture."

MINISTER MIZNER'S RASH WORDS.

A Diplomatic Set-to Between the U. S. and Mexican Governments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—M. Romero, Mexican minister, arrived in the city yesterday, having left the Pan-American excursionists. He said this evening that his return was not due to the Mizner incident, and that the affair was settled before he left Washington, some days ago. A dispatch from the City of Mexico, received some time ago, stated that there was great indignation there on account of the speech made by Mizner in Costa Rica on presenting his credentials as minister of the United States to Central American states. It was stated that Mizner had reflected upon Mexico in connection with the boundary dispute between that country and Guatemala.

Romero said that the remarks of Mizner have been officially disavowed, and that nothing further would be done in the matter by Mexico.

"There has been," he added, "no intention to ask for Mizner's recall. That was not desired. Minister Mizner having made the statement he did, the Mexican government wanted to know whether the insult was made by the United States. It has now been assured that the utterances were unauthorized, and that settles it."

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

The official diary, containing the copy of Secretary Blaine's letter of disavowal, has been received here. The following is a translation of the letter: "I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 8th inst., in which, by instruction of the secretary of foreign relations of Mexico, accompanied by the full text of Senor Mariscal's letter to you, dated September 28, you complain, in the name of your government, of certain allusions made by the minister of the United States in Central America in presenting his credentials as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary in Costa Rica on the 30th of last August. The impropriety and imprudent character of the remarks referred to was noticed by this department when the speech was received, and instructions were sent to Mr. Mizner on the subject on September 19, expressing sincere regret at his words and fear that they would receive erroneous interpretation, to which, unfortunately, they were liable which, as noticed by your letter, have been given them by the Mexican government. Knowing the history of the relations of mutual intimacy and confidence which it has been the constant purpose of this government to maintain with Mexico, as well as with other nations, it hardly appears necessary for me to assure you, and through you the government which you represent, that the remarks of Mr. Mizner, which implied officious and partial disposition on the part of this government, were wholly unauthorized and that this occasion brings sincere regret to this government, and is entirely disapproved by it.

Leech, director of the mint, reports that coinage at the mints during the fiscal year is as follows: Gold coins, in value, $25,543,910; silver dollars, $33,793,860; subsidiary silver, $721,686, and minor coins, $906,473; total, $60,965,929. In addition to this, gold bars valued at $22,241,121, and silver bars valued at $6,769,246 were manufactured. The profit on coinage of silver dollars and subsidiary coin was $9,403,049. The total coinage of silver dollars add subsidiary coin was $9,403,049. The total coinage of silver dollars under the Bland act up to the first of the present month was $342,638,001. Gold imports during the year amounted to $10,372,145, and exports $60,033,246. Silver imports amounted to $24,682,280 and exports $36,716,783. These figures show a loss to the United States by excess of exports over imports, gold $49,661,101, silver $12,034,403. The director estimates the consumption of gold and silver in the United States in industrial arts for the fiscal year to have been, gold $16,000,000 and silver $8,000,000. The product of gold and silver in the United States for the calendar year 1888 was, gold $33,175,000, and silver, commercial value, $69,195,000. The product of the world for the year was, gold $105,994,150, and silver, commercial value, $103,556,000, coining value $132,439,150.

THE CRUISER CHARLESTON.

Its Acceptance Is Not Yet Definitely Settled.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—After it was decided last Friday at the navy department, and so announced, to formally accept the cruiser Charleston, built by the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, a reconsideration was had, and the subject has since been further discussed by the officials. It is said the contractors had proposed to the secretary to deliver the vessel upon the showing made at the recent trial without suffering a penalty for failure to exhibit the horse-power required by the contract or to make another trial with certain changes in the machinery and pitch of the screw. The refusal of the department to accept this alternative proposition, it is said, would relieve the contractors of their liability to pay the penalty due to the lack of the contract horse power, and it was to determine this question if possible that the conferences have been held. As a result a telegram was sent to the contractors which Secretary Tracy said he believed would result in the acceptance of the Charleston, but its terms were not made public.

In reply to questions regarding the rumor that he had gone East to see Postmaster-General Wanamaker with respect to a call to Philadelphia offered him by that gentleman, he said: "Please say that I have had no correspondence with Mr. Wanamaker other than what is usual with us."

DOCTOR—Well, it is hardly professional to ask such information from a [illegible] I am inclined to think he would not be helping his practice much by saying [illegible] of the Charter Oak Stoves. But as I have one in my kitchen, as I know [illegible] I think I can enlighten you. Of course it would take quite a long lecture to explain [illegible] to you scientifically, and we have not time for that. Count Rumford, an American [illegible] Knighted in Europe for his scientific attainments, pointed out, nearly a hundred [illegible] baking and roasting meats in air-tight ovens was wrong, and he proved it by [illegible] He asserted that it was as essential to health that our food should be cooked in [illegible] as that we should breathe pure, fresh air, and that air-tight ovens render the [illegible] the food cooked therein became tainted and unhealthy. But how to properly [illegible] was not discovered for many years after Count Rumford's time. The difficulty [illegible] fresh air to enter the oven uniformly without cooling it perceptibly, and this has [illegible] plished by Mr. Filley's invention of the Wire Gauze Oven Door. The air [illegible] through the wire gauze in the form of very fine jets, and as there is a large [illegible] air is diffused and heated without forming air currents to cool the oven. [illegible] called a chemical decomposition with the aid of heat, but oxygen is as necessary [illegible] and this is furnished by the air. Again, the meat roasted in a tight oven loses [illegible] its most nutritious juices, which become dried out. Ventilating the oven prevents [illegible] and the meat is cooked perfectly in the same way as broiling over a charcoal fire [illegible] the old fashioned spit of our grandfather's time. Fresh air, or the oxygen furnished [illegible] also improves the baking of bread, making it much lighter and more easily digested [illegible] baked in a Charter Oak Stove with Wire Gauze Oven Doors will never mould [illegible] strong proof that the bread is pure and healthy.

CHARLES—Thank you, doctor. I think we understand the reason much better [illegible]

VANCOUVER CITY ELECTION

Independent Taxpayers Place a Ticket in the Field—Their Motives

VANCOUVER Nov 3

As the result of the mass meeting held at the armory building in this city last Friday night, called for the selection of candidates for mayor and councilmen had been fully canvassed it has been deemed eminently proper that a new ticket be placed in the field embracing such men as candidates as would come nearer representing the interests of the whole people and not in the interests of a favored few Appreciating the independent qualities possessed by Hon J Randolph Smith, who for several years has filled the office of mayor of Vancouver his many friends have insisted that he become the people's candidate for re-election notwithstanding his repeated refusals to again enter the race for the office which he filled with such fidelity to the interests of all the people Accordingly leading taxpayers and representative citizens of the city of Vancouver have named the following ticket Mayor J Randolph Smith, councilmen G H. Daniels Frank Marshall, W B Wells A J Cook Jerome B Smith, P C Kaufman A B Eastham

The above named gentlemen, selected for councilmen are well known progressive men, having the interests of the city at heart and in whose hands the important affairs of the city can be safely entrusted. Residents of the city will remember Mayor Smith's attitude in the matter of condemning the city levee in the interests of a private corporation While eager to encourage all lawful enterprises he opposed giving away the valuable property belonging to the people

The people believe that the taxpayers ticket, above presented, will guard the interests of the city in the matter of sewers, water rights street railway franchises electric lights and popular public improvements of every character The people are dissatisfied with the manner in which the mass meeting was worked " and it is no longer a question that many "jobs" are in contemplation by the monopolistic faction which has shown its hand in the endeavor to get complete control of the city government The taxpayers' ticket has been introduced to prevent this and it is safe to say that the people will quickly realize the situation

AT THE NEW PARK THEATER.

Commencing Wednesday evening next November 6, Joseph Grismer, Phœbe Davies and their own company will present for the first time in this city the great New York and San Francisco success, The Burglar " The piece was played by this company for four weeks at the Bush street theater San Francisco to packed houses The San Francisco Alta, speaking of the play and company, says

"The reappearance of Joseph R Grismer and Miss Phœbe Davies at Bush Street theater last evening brought out a large and fashionable audience and a great quantity of beautiful flowers It would hardly be possible to give players a warmer reception than they received The Burglar which furnished an evening of rare entertainment is probably destined to have as great a run as 'Little Lord Fauntleroy ' It abounds in strong situations is fertile of dramatic effect, pathos humor and all the elements which go to make up a strong and successful drama.

It would be difficult to tell a simpler or more powerful story of a misguided man. In drawing his picture Mr Thomas the author, has not strained the possibilities nor done violence to any of the well known traits of human nature He has also performed a much more difficult task Every character in the play has something to do with developing the plot At no point does the interest flag but from beginning to end the spectator is kept on the tiptoe of expectation for the next development This feature is one of the strongest features of the work of dramatic art.

Seats on sale this morning at Hoyt's music store.

"The Burglar" will be produced at the opera house at Albany to-night (Monday) by the popular artists Joseph Grismer and Phœbe Davis To-morrow night they will appear at Salem and the balance of the week commencing Wednesday at the New Park theater

COLDRAY'S MUSEE THEATER

Mr Sid C France, the well known character comedian, will commence his engagement at this popular house to night, supported by the Musee Dramatic Company in his sensational comedy drama Marked for Life

The play is said to contain several strong situations involving the heavy sensational features as well as to fairly run over with humor and laugh provoking incidents

Mr France who will doubtless be remembered by old Portlanders from his former engagement will assume the character of Skid a darkey and it is needless to say he will do it full justice

Especial care will be given to the scenic mounting and the orchestral effects and the large clientele of the house will doubtless be pleased

AN EXPERIMENT WORTH MAKING

A New Kind of Roadway Between Street Car Tracks

Superintendent Tyler Woodward of the Transcontinental Street Railway Company has tried several schemes for keeping the portion of the streets between the tracks of the company in repair He is now about to try a pavement of wooden blocks, something after the style of the old Nicholson pavement except that it will be in blocks of different shape and size Mr Woodward has ordered a lot of these blocks of the heart of the best yellow fir six inches in length, which it is thought will wear better than blocks cut from plank A block or two will be laid with fir and probably cedar and perhaps tamarack will also be experimented with This sort of pavement is used between car tracks in some of the Eastern cities and block pavement is growing in favor in many places It is claimed by some authorities on street paving that blocks cut off tamarack trees six or eight inches in diameter and the interstices filled with concrete make about the best pavement there is The wooden pavement certainly has a great advantage over the Belgian blocks as regards noise and smoothness, and the tamarack and cement pavement is very lasting There is plenty of tamarack in the Eastern part of the state and while it is of but little value for lumber it may some day be utilized for paving streets and become valuable

PORTLAND, MONDAY, NOV 4.

Timber land in vast quantities is being taken up in Baker and Grant counties, and the time is not far distant when there will be no opportunity left to secure this character of land

As the democratic papers in the territory are advising the legislators of the party to work and vote for republicans for U S senators it is just possible that they have concluded to come over and make it unanimous

A fast mail service is to be established for the benefit of the Northwest coast It will be a detriment instead of a benefit, for the route agents are not able to handle the mail with trains running at the present rate of speed

Some time ago charges were filed with the Indian commissioner against the Rev G M Irwin superintendent of the Indian industrial school at Chemawa The charges have been looked into and the commissioner exonerates Irwin.

Circuit court for Crook county, which is in session, has a large docket, which has sprung into existence since last term For a few years after the Prineville vigilance committees go. in their sure work her court dockets were rather on the light order

A sixty foot tower will be erected on the Agricultural college grounds at Corvallis on which will be placed a water tank of 15 000 gallons capacity The pump to be used will be operated by steam which will furnish all the water necessary for use at the college

Three counties in Washington gave a majority for Semple for governor the aggregate majority in the three being 71 Two counties gave majorities for Griffitts, amounting to 38 The total vote cast in the two counties was 262, consequently a large majority was not to be expected

Grass is beginning to spring up on the ranges in Eastern Oregon, but in this immediate illahe, says the Grant County News, the cattle are so hollow chested and consumptive looking it is doubtful if many of them survive to see it grow long enough to bite.

Horse thieving is being carried on extensively in the Snake river region according to the following from the Wallowa Chieftain Mr W A. Caldwell, who resides on Snake river, had 130 head of horses stolen from him He offers $500 reward for the horses and $250 for the thieves

This is the way they look at us up in Pendleton The East Oregonian says "Still there is a loud and constant kick at Portland about the inefficient and ring-run police service To an outsider it looks as if it was just as good as Portland deserves They have voted for it by large majorities "

The problem of ridding the orchards of Oregon of fruit pests is becoming a serious one. The fact that the apple crop of the state is nearly a failure confronts the orchardists this year Frequent spraying and the supplanting of the old moss grown orchards with young healthy trees is the thing most needed.

"Tacoma," says the Ledger, beats Portland in shipping in the tune of 125 per cent." Tacoma beats Portland in nothing but gall By the way, will the Ledger oblige by publishing the transactions daily and weekly at the Tacoma clearing house? Even if the totals are small no doubt they will do credit to so young a place

At the Indian training school at Chemawa it is evidently the intention to teach the Indian boys how to handle carpenter tools and the paint brush Carpenter Rogers is now engaged in building a barn, ground floor 36x66, and he is assisted by the Indian boys It will be two stories high. The houses are also being treated to a fresh coat of paint.

R. A Habersham, representing the syndicate which has the building of the proposed Jacksonville-Medford railroad in contemplation, has made the preliminary survey, and a meeting of the incorporators has been held The Jacksonville Times believes that Mr Habersham's report will be favorable and that the construction of the line will begin soon.

The stock inspector of Marion county has two sick horses under quarantine, and so soon as an order is received by him from the board, the animals will be killed This will be not later than to-morrow State Veterinarian Wythycombe pronounced the disease of the horses to be malignant gleet, and it is at his recommendation that they are killed.

The Idaho Free Press complains that the new constitution of Idaho disfranchises 5000 democrats in that territory This is said to be the result of one section but whether it excludes persons who are unable to read, says the Dayton Chronicle, or Mormons who are too much inclined to look upon the—no, that is the wrong verse—who are too frequently given in marriage, we are not able to say.

Work on the Hunt road in Eastern Washington is progressing favorably. A camp of graders is located on the Muncy place just below dayton. Track laying is still delayed by the building of the high trestle work this side of Dixie, but the third and last of the trestles is now about completed There will be no delay on account of the bridges on the Touchet, as temporary structures will be made to serve until the track is laid into Dayton

The discovery, at this late day of the remains of four victims of the Custer massacre on the battle ground is a new illustration of the completeness of the disaster and the extent of the panic that followed Though the monument on the hill where Custer made his last rally was erected earlier, the field was never fully explored until 1882 six years after the fight and the battle itself never fully understood till Gall and the other chiefs explained it two years ago

A company of citizens of Albany have bonded 270 acres of land at the junction of the narrow gauge railroad and the Lebanon branch and propose to lay out a town The postoffice at the junction is now called Tallman They propose to plat about seventy acres and lay the remainder off in small tracts They will donate land for any church school house, or public building and propose to boom the new town Lebanon Junction or Prairie City are the names suggested for the town It is four miles from Lebanon

Baker City is alarmed lest the Oregon Pacific in building through Eastern Oregon, will work a detriment to it by reason of cutting off an immense country that has always been tributary The Baker City Democrat, as a means of averting this danger, offers the following plan "Let the people of Baker City and Baker county make it their special business to confer with the Oregon Pacific managers and see if it is not possible to induce them to change their route of survey and come via Baker City It is certainly a common sense and business proposition and one, we doubt not, the company will entertain if properly presented to them Every inducement can be offered and if for no other reason than that a more remunerative section of country is given them to pass through, this of itself ought to be a great inducement See the long stretch of sparsely settled and barren country adjacent to their present survey after coming over the Cascades until they reach the Boise valley By changing their survey and coming through Grant county to Baker City and Powder river valley, thence on to Boise they would find a country of natural and developed resources the equal of any in the Pacific Northwest in agriculture in timber and in unlimited mineral deposits "

Friday was a gala day in Albina and the Courier gives the following account of it The small boy especially was in a high state of ecstatic glee from morning until night, and all such men as celebrate festive occasions by getting drunk were as full as boiled owls The streets were thronged with people and everybody was enjoying a free ride on the new electric street railway It was necessary that the road should be completed by November 1 in order to secure the $15 000 bonus that had been raised by property owners in the northern part of the city The company succeeded in doing this and a train was run in the afternoon the entire length of the road from Third street in Portland to St John's As all rides were free the cars were well patronized Albina can boast of the first electric street railway in Oregon

Pedestrians on Eighth street Philadelphia were amused by the sagacity of a dog The animal was trotting up street when suddenly his muzzle fell to the sidewalk He stopped looked at it and after a few attempts again got his head in the cage But just as he started on his trot it fell off a second time This was repeated four times Then the dog apparently realizing that it was beyond him to fasten the muzzle took it between his teeth and ran on, his looks indicating the pride he felt in mastering the difficulty

Some clever Britain has written a manual for the benefit of fashionable lady smokers Among many rules the fumeuses are cautioned against smoking out of doors or in any public place even when attended by their husbands The votary of the weed should never light a cigarette after 5 o clock even in the company of intimate friends the best time to smoke is after meals and the best place in the boudoir The tissue wrapped tobacco must be carried to the lips gracefully held in the center and never at the side of the mouth, and the fumeuse is directed to smoke with great deliberation and blow gentle wreaths of etherealized essence around her

NOTE BOOK AND PENCIL.

Captain Watson's Statement—He Is Charged With Robbery.

A German Colony—New A O H Lodge—A Lucky ... —Fast Time Schedule—New Buildings—Tracks Derailed Etc

THE DRIVING DRIVE —The White house drive yesterday presented a lively appearance. The day was clear cool and beautiful and a great many citizens, as well as strangers, availed themselves of the privilege of a drive on Portland's most beautiful boulevard. The late improvements to the road have contributed much to the pleasure of those who use it, and the drive yesterday was certainly enjoyed by all. The high bluffs on the west, covered with trees whose leaves reflected all the autumnal foliage, the placid Willamette gliding onward toward the east, gliding onward toward the Columbia and the snow capped peaks of Mounts Hood and St Helens standing in bold relief in the distance combined to make a picture that appealed to the most obtuse observer of nature's beauties as lovely and enchanting beyond comparison and the strangers who enjoyed the view were greatly delighted.

CAPTAIN WATSON HEARD FROM —Captain Watson yesterday stated that in the case of J Jones, who was arrested on a charge of insulting a lady and was subsequently released, he did not act the part of a ... in charging the police with abuse ... the tenant especially as there was no ... for it. As soon as it was ascertained that Jones had an impediment in his speech which might have caused the lady to think he had used insulting language to her, said Captain Watson, we released him without requiring him to furnish bail for his appearance in court. The proper course would have been to keep him here until the charge is investigated, but as a mark of respect for him we allowed him to go on his recognizance. Not satisfied with this he has seen fit to make charges and accusations that are utterly false. There is absolutely no truth in the assertion that any of the officers ill treated him.

A VALUABLE WORK —The Oregon Washington and Idaho Gazeteer and business directory of R L Polk & Co for 1889 90 has been received by THE OREGONIAN from Mr ... of Polk & Co's very energetic and efficient manager for this coast. The growth of the Northwest is reflected in this work which contains 1 1 pages more than the last issue, notwithstanding that the pages have been divided into two columns considerably increasing the number of names on each. The work contains a well written descriptive sketch of Oregon, Washington and Idaho and a carefully prepared description of every county in each and an accurate railroad county map of each. The directories of the towns burned during the past summer are as complete and fine as possible being brought down to the latest date. The work represents a vast amount of labor and will be of great service to the business men of the whole Northwest.

A BEAUTIFUL DAY —Yesterday was one of the most beautiful days imaginable. The sun shone from an unclouded sky. The atmosphere was clear, and just cool enough for comfort. Thousands were abroad in all directions. The view of the snow peaks was magnificent. Mount Hood, St. Helens, Adams and Rainier all being visible, and standing out in bold relief against the blue sky. The steel bridge was visited by many, who paused long to admire the grand view of the harbor and shipping, the city, hills and distant mountain ranges, all of which looked their best. People basked in the sunshine and admired the green fields and trees and spoke of the Colorado blizzard ... thanked their stars that their lot was cast in Oregon.

HE FOUND 'EM OUT —There is no other place in the world where the sportsman can come so near enjoying the best of trout fishing the year round as in Oregon. Trout ... are here in the spring as early as ... a mind to fish for them, and the ... and fishing begins in earnest ... of April from which time up ... good fishing can be had. Yesterday Mr Stamp, of THE OREGONIAN composing room enjoyed a fine day's fishing up near Milwaukie. He caught thirteen fine trout which filled a good sized creel, and he ... landed after a most exciting fight a ... or chicken-mouth of large size. Mr Stamp is an enthusiastic fisherman and was greatly delighted with his day's sport.

"IT'S FUNNY, MONEY"—"Do you see that little ... there?" asked a heavy property owner of a reporter yesterday. The reporter pleaded guilty to the ocular impression. "Well, sir you ought to make a new ... for that old song which says 'It's funny ain't it funny?'" "How is that?" "Well that little tumbledown, wooden building will be occupied in a few days by one of the low Mongolian saloons, at a monthly rental of $45. The owner is one of the oldest deacons in Portland, and he is, I suppose, at this very moment, going down the aisle of his church with his pious face and ... bent over the contribution box ... money covers a multitude of sins, ... it!"

THE BUILDINGS —The sixth story is on the J W Corbett's handsome block at the corner of Third and Oak, and the roof nearly completed. The building towers above all in the vicinity and presents a very fine appearance. The Marquam grand opera house presents a lofty front on Alder street, and is only looked down on by "The Portland." The roof is partially on, and when completed the buildings will loom up grandly from First street, and when the Morrison ... completed it will out top the big ... Work on the galleries and inside ... is being forwarded as rapidly as circumstances will allow, and when the roof is on the whole will progress rapidly to completion.

APPROPRIATE FOR THE SEASON —Mr H Woodward, who has been for some time assistant superintendent of the Transcontinental Street Railway Company, has resigned his position, and will engage in other business or pursuit on his own account. Saturday evening a delegation from the employees of the company waited on Mr Woodward and presented him with an umbrella, the finest and most expensive to be had in the city, as a token of their appreciation of his uniform courtesy and kindness to them. Mr Woodward was much pleased at the expression of good feeling from the boys, and will carry it proudly in rainy days and preserve it carefully on fine ones.

ONLY A TEMPORARY ATTACK —Mr E P ..., who was taken with an acute attack of insanity Saturday evening yesterday was very much improved. He talked intelligently with his friends who came to see him at the city jail and it is believed that he will come out all right. It was at first thought necessary to take him to the asylum for at least several months, but yesterday his condition was so much improved that he will be taken back to the hospital where a few weeks careful nursing will do him more good than any course of medical treatment possibly can. The delirium was the direct cause of an attack of ... fever.

WANTS THE FIRMS STOPPED —"If you are looking for an item, Mr Reporter," said a leading First street merchant yesterday, "I wish you would say something about these ... which are being built so promiscuously ... the streets. Both of our delivery horses are laid up, one of them for the second time within a few weeks, from getting nails in ... feet where old sidewalks have been ... up. Other horses are in the same ... I could show you several places where ... have been built by contractors ... replacing sidewalks. The police should ... or these nails will do considerable damage to horse flesh."

TRUCKS DERAILED —The rear trucks of a ... on the morning overland on the Southern Pacific were derailed yesterday at the car shops just as the train was pulling from the station, and a delay of a half hour ... No damage beyond a severe ... to the passengers.

NEW A.O. H. LODGE —The Hibernians of ... will in about two weeks organize a ... of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, with a charter membership of some twenty ... Mr J E Kelley county delegate for Multnomah, will conduct the organization ...

GOING TO MAGDALENA BAY —Captain James Williams, the veteran fisherman left yesterday overland, for San Francisco on his way to Magdalena Bay Lower California where he will remain during the winter. He spent last winter there prospecting the fisheries and found fish of many kinds, and sea turtle very plentiful. He is now interested in a company who have leased a long stretch of the coast of Lower California from the Mexican government and will be allowed to carry on fisheries there without molestation. The company will engage in canning sea turtle, and curing and canning various kinds of fish.

CRACKER CREEK MINE —The mill at the Cracker creek mine is rapidly approaching completion, and it is expected that the stamps will be dropping some time about the 20th inst. Twenty stamps are being put in for a starter, but there is power enough for forty, and if the results attained are anything like what is expected the other twenty stamps will be put in at once. There is an amount of rock on the dump sufficient to keep the mill running for a long time and if this proves as rich as there is good reason for expecting, the Cracker creek country will soon be booming.

A THIEF IN THE TOILS —Officers Barry and Day yesterday afternoon arrested Jerry Hazelwood in East Portland on a charge of robbing an old man in the colored resort on Second street between A and B at an early hour yesterday morning. It is alleged that Hazelwood relieved the old man of about $25 and then disappeared in great haste. He was surprised when the officers confronted him with the accusation but he followed them to the city jail, where he now is without a murmur.

READY TO BEGIN WORK —Work on the electric motor line to Waverly and Woodstock will be commenced as soon as the ordinance granting a franchise to certain streets is passed which it is expected will be done at the next meeting of the East Portland council. Mr Preston of the Seattle Lake Shore & Eastern railroad is here to take charge of the work and it will be pushed with vigor as soon as a commencement is made.

AT THE SMELTER —A deed conveying fifteen and a half acres of land at Linnton to the Portland Smelting and Refining Company was filed for record a day or two since. The work of putting up the machinery at the smelting works has been begun and will be carried on as rapidly as possible. There will be tall stacks of chimneys smoking at Linnton before long.

FAST TIME SCHEDULES —Schedules are now being prepared for the fast trains which are to be run by the Union Pacific, between Omaha and Portland on and after the 17th inst., and which are intended to reduce the time between the two cities about thirty hours. People who intend to travel by these trains are beginning to catch their breath already.

NOT IN NEED OF ASSISTANCE —The statement made in a paragraph concerning the late J W Milliken yesterday to the effect that his family is in need of assistance was an error and, as it has pained his family and friends is much regretted. The item was indited with the most friendly feelings for all concerned, and the error was inadvertent.

A GOOD DAY'S RUN —The charge of 5 cents for the round trip to Albina and back seems very small and one would hardly suppose that any money could be made by running a ferry at such rates. The Cyclone however made $100 beside taking in 1500 tickets, yesterday so travel must have been rather brisk on the Albina route.

THAT BICYCLE RACE —A telegram was received in the city yesterday from the bicyclist "Senator" Morgan, at San Francisco stating that he would leave there last evening for this city. Upon his arrival the details of his bicycle race with Fred T Merrill, which is to take place soon, will be arranged.

GERMAN COLONY —A colony of some thirty immigrants were at the International yesterday, en route from "Vaterland" to Dallas, Or. They were headed by Mr Franz Kliemer, the only English-speaking member of the party.

THE PORTLAND CASH GROCERY Nos. 45 and 235 First street, are selling 14 pounds of granulated sugar for $1, 3 cans tomatoes 25 cents 3 cans table fruit 50 cents 5 pounds Royal baking powder $2, best roller flour $1 10 per sack.

A WINTRY BLAST —Cold weather is the next thing on the programme. An immense sale of white bedspreads takes place at J. Selling & Co's to morrow. 75c 95c and $1 25 will be the quotations. If you need them you'll buy.

A SUNDAY ARREST —On a warrant issued from Justice Tuttle's court, R E Calahan was yesterday committed to the county jail. His bail was set at $200, which was duly furnished.

QUARTERLY MEETING —The quarterly meeting of the Portland Woman's Union will be held at 3 P M to-day, at the Unitarian chapel, Seventh and Yamhill.

TO HOUSEKEEPERS and hotel proprietors, look at E Meyer & Co's "ad" this morning for list of prices on blankets and comforts. Special sale this week.

CHANGE OF TIME —Steamer Latona leaves Portland 10 A. M and 3 30 P M, leaves Oregon City 7 30 A M and 1 P M.

BRIEF MENTION

Do not buy a cheap piano when you can get the very best for the same money. H Sinsheimer, the well known music dealer at 214 First street, has just received an immense shipment of the famous Steinway & Sons and Chickering & Sons pianos—the best instruments in the world. He also carries the only high grade organ—the Burdett. He is the only Portland music dealer who buys direct from the factories for cash only.

PORTLAND, MONDAY, NOV. 4

ELECTIONS TO-MORROW.

Elections will be held to morrow in many states. The contests of most interest are those in Ohio, Virginia and Iowa. In those states governors and other state officers, together with members of the legislature, are to be elected. Ohio has long had a habit of going democratic in an "off year," though the republicans may hold the state now. In Iowa the republican party has been so weakened by adoption of prohibition as the main feature of its state policy that, except in presidential years the contests are very close. This year the democrats of Iowa are said to have the help of the railroads of the state, in consequence of legislation enacted by republicans which the railroad corporations regard as unfriendly and with this help the democrats are making boasts that they will win. In Virginia there has been a most vigorous contest. During ten years past the republicans have gained on the democrats in every election, and last year Cleveland won the state by less than 1600 in a total vote of more than 300 000. Democrats of Virginia are putting forth extraordinary efforts to defeat Mahone for the governorship. He is hated intensely as an enemy of the South" because, though a Confederate general he has abandoned the democratic party and become a republican. Mahone declares that he will be elected but it is hardly probable. True, he is supported in every county by large numbers of white men many of whom were Confederate soldiers and the customary bulldozing therefore can not be general throughout the state, but it will hardly be possible to guard every point, and there will be opportunities for "counting out" which the democratic managers may be expected to improve.

In New York the republicans make a supreme effort only in presidential years. Members of the legislature and minor state officials are to be elected in New York to-morrow. Very probably the democrats will carry the general ticket by 30 000 to 40,000 majority but the republicans will be likely to secure the legislature, as heretofore. The reason why a large democratic majority in the state does not carry the legislature is that the vast democratic majorities massed in the metropolis are thrown away on the party's legislative candidates, while the republican vote distributed throughout the state is available for the election of members of the legislature. Hence, the democrats of the state of New York have had a majority in the legislature only two or three times within thirty years. This year the republicans are making an effort to get two-thirds, so as to be able to pass a liquor tax bill over the veto of Governor Hill. But this result is scarcely to be expected.

Unless in Virginia, there is not likely to be a full vote anywhere this year and experience shows that results obtained when the vote is a "short" one do not furnish data for any forecast as to national politics when the issues are such as to call out a full vote. The year following a presidential contest the republican party is always "tired," or lazy, and on these occasions the democratic party always boasts of "gains," which, however, fail to materialize in succeeding contests when national questions are paramount.

NOT A WAY TO REFORM.

Bishop Fallows of Chicago, in a recent sermon talked about the saloons and the men who support them. He said:

> The majority of the saloons' patrons—Sundays and week days—are poor men workingmen. Few of these have homes which can offer any such show of comfort as the saloons. Many of the homes are wretched and squalid. The poor man obeying an evil impulse of human nature goes forth from his family in quest of change. The rich have their clubs the poor have none so they go to the saloon. Here they find light, warmth more or less comfort and elegance and, most of all, the companionship of their fellows, with opportunities for conversation on politics, labor questions, or whatever interests them.

This reads very much like an apology for those men who abandon their homes and leave their wives and children to wretchedness and want while they seek their own gratification in the saloon. If "few of the workingmen have homes that can offer any such show of comfort as the saloons" whose fault is it? That of the men who spend their money in the saloon make the saloon what it is and leave to their homes the heritage of want and wretchedness. If these men would spend upon their homes the money they spend in the saloons, the homes would soon change places with the saloons in point of attractiveness and comfort. But this they will not do. They prefer to gratify their selfish desires and so leave their wives and children to homes pinched with want, to abodes of cheerlessness and misery.

What would men like Bishop Fallows have society do? Provide clubs for poor men, such as rich men have so that poor men would not have to go to the saloon? Then wouldn't he go a step further and provide poor men's families with luxurious homes, such as rich men's families have? Why forget the poor wife and children and concentrate all sympathy on the man? Talk like this is the utterance of mountebanks. It accomplishes nothing whatever for temperance or for the home. On the contrary by specious argument, it appears to justify the man who can't afford it, for visiting and supporting the saloon, at the expense of his home, because the rich man has his club, which, however, is not supported at the expense of his home. If the argument is worth anything at all it would require society to provide attractive club houses for working men, with concomitants of liquor good lunches and other entertainments. Would this help workmen to industry or give their families cheerful and happy homes?

A man's resources are in the virtues of prudence, industry, sobriety and self denial. If he is not a selfish and thoughtless creature he will not spend his money merely for his own gratification but will think of home, wife and children. If he is a thoughtless and selfish creature, his case is hopeless, and more hopeless still is the condition of his wife and children. Apology for the disposition to selfish gratification will never lead to reform of this deepest vice of depraved human nature.

NOT EQUITABLE.

Under our present license law a general dealer in liquors pays $400 annually and a dealer in malt liquors exclusively pays $200. This law is not equitable in this that it makes no distinction between a man who is primarily a liquor dealer keeping an open bar day and night and a man who is only incidentally a liquor dealer and primarily a victualler, who keeps no bar sells no ardent spirits but furnishes a bottle of ale or claret as an accommodation to his customer who uses it at meals. Under our present law persons who keep an oyster saloon cannot furnish claret and ale to their customers who desire these beverages with their food, except on payment of $400 for a liquor dealer's license, if they sell wine and ale or $200 if they furnish only malt liquors. The amount of sales by any restaurant of beer and claret to their customers is too small to justify the taking out of a license at a price that would be only tolerable if the business was primarily a bar and only incidentally a restaurant. Of course a restaurant should pay for a license, but it ought not in equity to be charged the same price that a keeper of an open bar, day and night, pays. It is no answer to say that if a lower rate was charged a restaurant that keeps no bar for a victualler's license, under the pretense of a restaurant a man could primarily conduct a general liquor business, and thus abuse the privilege of his license. The law does make a distinction between the general dealer in all kinds of liquors and a dealer in malt liquors exclusively. The dealer in malt liquors is far more likely to abuse his privilege by selling other than malt liquors under his license than a man, who really keeps a restaurant primarily, and not a rum hole is likely to ruin his legitimate business by seeking to sell liquor rather than food. A holder of a malt liquor dealer's license would be obliged to show that he was not guilty of exceeding his license, and a man who took out a victualler's license to furnish wine and beer with meals, would be obliged to show that he was in good faith and not in mere pretense a victualler primarily and only incidentally a furnisher of wine and beer to his customers with their meals. If it is equitable and safe to make a distinction between general dealers in all kinds of liquors and those who only sell malt liquors it is certainly quite as equitable and consistent with public safety to issue to bona fide restaurants a victualler's license, to sell wine and beer on moderate terms. Every city of consequence in this country issues such license on proof that the person making application is a bona fide victualler, and not primarily a general liquor seller, wearing the uniform of a victualler.

A SPECIAL PLEA FOR FREE TRADE.

Mr Hugh McCulloch who has twice been secretary of the treasury under a republican administration is entitled to a good deal of consideration when he makes a professedly non partisan plea for revenue reform. Nevertheless, his letter to the New York Times on the subject the substance of which we think it worth while to reproduce in another place is a specious and insincere special plea for partial free trade—that is for free trade in certain articles, without disturbing the duty on others equally deserving of relief—from a distinctly partisan and sectional point of view. Mr McCulloch writes as a democrat rather than as an economist. More than that he writes as a sectional democrat in the interest of the Eastern and Southern manufacturer of iron, textiles and sugar, and without regard to the interest of the Western producer.

The burden of Mr McCulloch's not very lucid argument is that excessive stimulants manufactured by protection has led to overproduction of goods and a consequent low price in the domestic market, that the remedy for this is the extension of our foreign market that the way to do this is to admit raw materials free of duty, thus increasing imports from other countries and creating an outlet for our finished goods which he supposes would be sold them in exchange. This argument comes strangely from the mouth of a member of the party which in the West is urging revenue reform on the ground that it is in the interest of the consumer. But the democratic party constantly finds itself in this position. The Western reformer wants reform that it may make goods cheaper for his constituents the consumers. The Eastern reformer wants reform, in the shape of free trade in raw materials that it may make a foreign market for goods, and so prevent over production, and consequent low prices at home. Mr McCulloch shows due solicitude for the restoration of the American shipping interest as a necessary condition of the increase of our trade with foreign countries, but he seems to think this will naturally follow the removal of the duties on raw materials, and the repeal of the navigation laws. It is easy to agree that the navigation laws are a remnant of barbarism that lags superfluous on the modern statute books. But Mr McCulloch like most free traders exaggerates the reasonable probable effect of the removal of our duties on exports from foreign countries in stimulating trade with them. We already import large quantities of sugar coffee hides and other raw materials from the Spanish American countries and the fact has no appreciable influence upon their disposition to buy goods from us or on the vitality of the American shipping trade. If Mr McCulloch were not so wedded to his theory as to be blind to the experiences of other nations, he would see that the way to extend our foreign trade is, first to make the goods foreign nations want, and next, to send our own ships loaded with them to trade in their markets. That is to say study to suit foreign markets as the English do, and subsidize steamships lines as they do. This would do more to extend foreign trade in a year than free trade in a century.

Mr McCulloch's observations of the evils of the tariff are unfortunate, as much for what they omit as for what they contain. In recapitulating the articles on which the duty is unjust to the consumer he omits sugar, the gravest case of unfairness on the entire schedule. It seems right to Mr McCulloch apparently that the consumers of the country should pay $50 000 000 tax on sugar annually to protect $10,000 000 or $15,000,000 worth of product in Louisiana while it is outrageous that the manufacturers of the country should pay $5 000 000 or $6 000 000 tax on wool to protect one of the largest agricultural interests in the country. The Southern planter and the New England manufacturer are in his eyes the only interests in the country worth considering. He dwells on the old argument of the reduction of the price of quinine after the removal of the duty which all the free traders have worn threadbare, forgetting or ignoring the fact that the price of quinine was reduced simultaneously all over the world by the natural ization of the cinchona plant in the British East Indies. It is manifestly absurd to generalize from results which, in this case, had causes altogether independent of the change in our tariff. But this is a fair sample of the argument employed by Mr McCulloch all through his ingenious letter of special pleading.

AMERICAN RIGHTS IN BEHRING SEA.

James B Angell president of Ann Arbor (Mich) university contributes an interesting article to the current number of the Forum concerning American rights in Behring sea. Mr Angell was for several years editor of the Providence (R I) Journal and was a member of the commission that negotiated our last treaty with China and on all matters that involve diplomatic history and international law he is a man of wide and accurate learning.

The seizures of domestic and foreign poachers in Behring sea have been made for alleged violation of section 1956 of the Revised Statutes of the United States which provides that no person shall without the consent of the secretary of the treasury kill any otter mink marten sable fur seal or other fur bearing animal within the limits of Alaska territory or in the waters thereof under certain penalties. H F French acting secretary of the treasury March 12 1881 officially interpreted the expression, "in the waters thereof" as including all the waters in Behring sea within our boundaries. Secretary Manning in 1886 indorsed and adopted this view. During the last session of congress an act was passed (approved March 2 1889) to provide for the protection of the salmon fisheries of Alaska. In its third section it says that "section 1956 of the Revised Statutes of the United States is hereby declared to include and apply to all the dominions of the United States in Behring sea" and makes it the duty of the president each year to make proclamation accordingly.

On the 22d of March last President Harrison issued his proclamation warning "all persons against entering the waters of Behring sea within the dominion of the United States for the purpose of violating the provisions of said section 1956 Revised Statutes" and declaring that all persons found to be or to have been engaged in any violation of the laws of the United States will be arrested and punished as above provided." In 1821 Russia claimed exclusive jurisdiction for all purposes over Behring sea for a hundred miles from the coast all the way from Behring strait down to the fifty-first degree of latitude and the czar by his ukase excluded foreigners from pursuing "commerce, whaling fishing and all other industry in those waters and adjacent lands." We have not claimed this exclusive jurisdiction over Behring sea for under the ruling of Acting Secretary French and Secretary Manning our revenue cruisers have been directed to arrest foreign vessels only to prevent them from killing fur bearing animals. The object of the legislation of congress is to prevent the indiscriminate slaughter and early extinction of the fur seals which resort to the Priby off islands to breed. If foreign and domestic poachers are allowed to catch them without limit on their way to their breeding place the seals will soon be exterminated. The prevention of the extinction of the fur bearing seal is greatly for the interest of Great Britain for all the sealskins taken in Behring sea are sent to London to be dressed and prepared for use. The question is whether for the protection of fur bearing seals from extinction we may rightfully board search and seize foreign vessels in Behring sea more than three miles away from land.

Our action has been defended on the ground that Russia exercised exclusive jurisdiction in Behring sea and by the cession of Alaska she transferred to us the right to exercise the same jurisdiction, but THE OREGONIAN in previous articles has shown that the United States by the pen of John Quincy Adams secretary of state under President Monroe in 1823 successfully resisted the claim of Russia expressed in the ukase of 1821. Secretary Adams denied explicitly for the United States that Russia could justly maintain the claim that the North Pacific was a closed sea. Bancroft in his "History of Alaska" says that in 1842 the Russian minister of foreign affairs explicitly refused to send cruisers to interfere with our whalemen in Behring sea on the ground that our treaty of 1824 with Russia gave us the right of fishing over the whole extent of the Pacific which shows that Russia regarded Behring sea as part of the Pacific ocean and not as one of the interior seas" access to which was forbidden by this treaty.

A "closed sea," as defined by President Angell requires that the entrance to the sea should be narrow enough to make the naval occupation of it easy or practicable," and we cannot under this definition claim Behring to be a closed sea with half as much reason as England could claim the Gulf of St Lawrence to be a closed sea. From our most western island in Behring sea to the nearest point of Asiatic Russia is 300 miles. The sea from east to west measures 1100 miles and from north to south 800 miles. Its area is two thirds as great as that of the Mediterranean and twice that of the North sea. The entrance to the Mediterranean by the Straits of Gibraltar is less than nine miles wide. The chief entrance to the Gulf of St Lawrence, which is entirely surrounded by British territory is only about 50 miles in width. Behring sea is open on the north by the straits 36 miles wide. We are therefore without modern precedent to hold this great sea as mare clausum.

Furthermore our government has never formally set up the claim that it is a closed sea. Secretary Boutwell in 1872 said that the United States had no jurisdiction or power to expel foreign sealers from Behring sea unless they attempted to capture seals within a marine league of the shore. The act of congress of March 2 1889 and the president's proclamation of March 21 1889 merely affirm that we will exercise our authority in the execution of a certain law wherever our dominion extends in that sea. It is left to be determined if need be how far that dominion extends.

To argue that because the seals taken by the British breed on our soil we have an exclusive claim to protect them in the sea from extinction is says Mr Angell as absurd as would be the claim of Canada to the wild ducks shot in Oregon, on the plea that they were hatched in territory of the Dominion. The British government does regulate and control the pearl fisheries in the open sea from eight to twenty miles west of the northern end of Ceylon but this is done under sufferance of the other powers who have not lost their title to seek pearls in those waters by letting it sleep in lack of any interest in its assertion. On the whole President Angell finds no good ground on which we can claim as a right the exclusion of foreigners from the open waters of Behring sea for the purpose of protecting the seals.

President Angell seems to think that while the law and the treasury regulations as they now stand cannot rightfully exclude foreigners from taking seals from Behring sea nevertheless we can enforce them against our own citizens in these waters, although in so doing we clearly discriminate against our own countrymen. We do not believe this discrimination will endure judicial examination for if Behring sea is a high sea our government could no more forbid an American citizen from fishing in its waters than it could forbid him fishing in any or all the high seas of the world. The remedy for the existing situation is for the United States to at once negotiate with Great Britain Russia Japan and the other interested powers on the best method of preserving the seals from extermination. The correspondence preliminary to such a negotiation was opened by Secretary Bayard but dropped when it promised the fairest hopes of success.

Some interesting facts are revealed in the report of the director of the mint. The silver coinage of the year is about $35 000 000. Deducting the $9 000 000 of profit on the coinage, this exactly fills the requirement of the law that $2 000 000 of silver per month should be purchased for coinage. So the secretary has coined no more silver than he was obliged to by law in spite of the pressure upon him by this act and others. The other feature of general public interest in the report is the showing that the loss to the United States of gold and silver for the year was about $50 000 000 while the product of gold was only $33 000 000. We exported no silver to speak of though we produced $50 000 000. Here are positive and reliable signs of the expulsion of gold from the country by silver which is the inevitable result of our policy of coining and putting into circulation of the baser metal.

Mr W. C. Williams calls attention to a statement in THE OREGONIAN of October 29 concerning the restraining order issued against the payment of warrants for the construction of the Port Angeles & Port [illegible] road. He says there was no accusation of fraud in the matter neither was there any fraud in the construction or payment. The county commissioners are upheld in their action by the property holders but through want of information they exceeded their authority. Mr Williams also furnishes a statement from E. W. DeCourcey an engineer of thirty-five years experience who says the work done by Mr Williams on that road was well done and much cheaper than he would have estimated it.

Princes come high but some of us must have them. Mr Huntington's prince cost him $2 000 000 and he is a rotten and shopworn prince at that. The marriage settlements convey to the Prince of Hatzfeldt the sum of $1,750,000 to be invested for the support of the queerly mated pair. In addition to this, Huntington pays debts of his rakish son in law to the amount of a quarter of a million dollars. The prince has a shrewd eye to contingencies, and seems advised of the possibilities of freakishness latent in American girls so he makes his share in the income from his bride's royal dot entirely independent of any subsequent divorce proceedings. All this is very revolting to American ideas, commercial as well as social. Mr Huntington, in all his Montgomery and Wall street experience, never made so foolish and fruitless an investment as that just consummated in a princely son in law.

As a result of a series of typographical errors the name Onley for Olney, appeared several times yesterday in THE OREGONIAN in article from a Salem paper on the late Nathan Olney and his descendants. In the early history of Oregon Nathan Olney was a well known and prominent character. About twenty years ago he passed out of public view lived the remainder of his life in quiet obscurity and died on the Yakima, in Washington territory.

"RAW MATERIAL."

Oregon City Enterprise: There isn't a free trader on the face of the earth who can give an honest definition of the term "raw material." There is in fact, no such thing known to commerce or industry as raw material. The term is misleading, indefinite and fit only to be mouthed by demagogues for purposes of deception. There are no raw materials excepting the crude substances of nature and these cease to be such the moment labor is applied to develop them for the use of man.

A SHORT SIGHTED POLICY.

UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
OREGON CITY OR NOV 1.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In justice to the position which we hold, and to those who have honored us by the appointment and therefore have the right to know just the motives that actuate a public officer we feel it due them and ourselves that we should reply to the article published in the Astoria Transcript of October 28 1889, and several other articles from the same self styled republican paper and would ask the papers of this district to give space to this our reply to the charge therein made.

Some time previous to our assuming the duties of the office to which we were appointed by the president of the United States we received a letter from a prominent citizen of Astoria asking that when we assumed the duties of the register of the land office the Transcript a republican paper of Astoria be designated as the paper to publish the land notices from this office.

To this letter we replied in substance that we would give the matter due consideration and in the same letter we asked what would be the charge of the Transcript for the publication of the notices. We then supposed and still feel that we had the right to ask and demand a reply. We then thought and still think that it would be wrong and unjust to the public for us in our official position to designate any paper though it were the only republican paper in the place, as the organ in which the notices should be published and then leave them free to extort from the public an unreasonable fee for the publication of such notices. And in our asking the question we did not only ask it of the friend of the Transcript but we asked in substance the same question to each of the papers that we have designated. It was asked simply to prevent any one from taking advantage of the designation to extort an unjust fee from any one whom we compelled to patronize a certain paper. And we now say not only to the Transcript but to all other papers and parties that while we may hold the position that places in our control the designation of a paper in which the land notices from this office shall be published we shall feel it our duty to demand to know just what shall be charged the persons whom we by our designation compel to patronize a specific journal and when that right is denied we feel that we have the right, and should exercise it in refusing to make the designation, or at once revoke it should the paper use such designation to extort an unjust or exorbitant fee from any one.

The following list of papers is appended that have been put upon the list to whom the notices of this office would be sent for publication that the fullest investigation may be had as to whether we have asked demanded or received any part of the specified fees for the printing of any notice sent to any or either of them:

WEEKLY OREGONIAN Portland, Astorian and Pioneer Astoria, Oregon Mist St Helens, Nehalem Journal Vernonia, Columbia county, Western Watchman and Tillamook Headlight Tillamook, Hillsboro Independent, Hillsboro, Yamhill County Reporter, McMinnville, Polk County Observer Dallas, West Side Independence, Corvallis Gazette Corvallis, Yaquina Republican, Newport, Herald Disseminator Albany, Express Lebanon, Scio Press Scio, Weekly Statesman Salem, Silverton Appeal Silverton, Newport News Newport, Enterprise, Oregon City.

In conclusion we will say that we deny every charge or intimation that is made in the self reputed republican paper and stand at any time willing under oath to say that every charge or intimation made by said paper is false and untrue. We shall be ever willing at any and all times that our superiors shall make the most rigid investigations of our official actions.

THE VACANT LOT INDUSTRY.

PORTLAND, NOV 4.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Apropos of the citizens' meeting to discuss the subject of taxation might it not be well to take a common sense view of the actual facts and go to the heart of the question instead of trimming round its edges? In short to keep nothing back but state plainly what is the great obstacle that prevents capital from investing in manufacturing and other enterprises in our midst?

No doubt there are worse men amongst us than the real estate men. (A certain personage is said to be not as black as he is painted and the secular scriptures somewhere admonish us to give him his due.) Nobody doubts their influence and Stark street alone is witness enough as to their numbers. They are not without their good points and deserve much credit for some very sound suggestions made in the recent meeting. But with all due respect to them what we need is not men to sell lots, but men to improve them. Great enterprise has been shown in laying off town lots four or five miles from the city but what we need is genuine enterprise to build up the vacant lots in our midst.

Our present system however does its best to discourage such enterprise. The "dog in the manger" who holds city land out of use waiting for his industrious neighbors to enhance its value is tenderly dealt with by the assessor and his lots rated as "agricultural," but when he does let go at big figures to some unfortunate needing a home, and the latter proceeds to build thereon the assessor at once fines him for this exhibition of industry by rating his lot as city property. A heavy tax of course follows.

What we need is a system of taxation that will encourage building and discourage the "vacant lot industry." The community, by its presence of industry creates the value in land. All the efforts of the community will not enhance the value of a building but the added value of city property inheres to the land beneath the building. Why then should we place heavy taxes on buildings and light ones on land? Justice would seem to require that the inhabitants of a city should tax for public purposes those ground rents which the joint efforts of all have created and nature has evidently created here a fund for taxation which is amply sufficient for all public purposes without any necessity for taxing houses or any other product of man's industry. If our constitution is so imperfect that the public cannot take its own without also taking from the individual let us amend that document.

I claim to be an intense protectionist. I believe in protecting American industry against any and all schemes that tend to rob the laborer of the results of his toil, and I claim that our present system of taxation from Washington city down to the smallest municipality is a villainous scheme to despoil labor of its just earnings. To let vacant lot operators fatten on the labors of the industrious is a grievous wrong.

If the city of Portland would raise its funds from ground rents alone and abandon all taxation of improvements a burden would be at once lifted from enterprise that would cause capital to flow in from all quarters and combined with the discouragement of the vacant lot industry would promote a phenomenal growth surpassing that of Kansas city and this growth would not be in the form of new additions with one house to the acre but an actual growth of population with all the accompanying industries that ever spring up and thrive where trade is untrammeled by taxation.

At present vacant lots may be found everywhere, like smallpox pits on the smiling countenance of our fair city. Tax them so that their owners will either have to make use of them or let go on easy terms to those who will fill them up with buildings, and the city would build up solidly and public improvements be maintained at far less cost than when great spaces of vacant land intervene between the built up portions. And be it observed that the ground rents of Portland constitute a fund for taxation that would maintain all public improvements in a high state of efficiency and enable the city to lay out money in directions which it dares not dream of now. And this without the least burden or discouragement of any form of industry except the arduous toil involved in holding on to a vacant lot.

A DEMOCRATIC TARIFF

The Attitude of That Party on the Present Issues.

A STATEMENT BY HUGH M'CULLOCH

He Believes the Present System of Raising Revenues Stands in the Way of National Prosperity on Every Side.

Hon Hugh McCulloch writes a four column letter to the New York Times on the relations of the two political parties to the issues of the day, in which is embraced the following presentation of the democratic attitude in relation to the tariff:

Admitting what I am not disposed to deny that protective duties were once needed to induce capitalists to put their money into manufactories it is very clear to my mind that as this object has been long since accomplished, the continuance of such duties is not only unjust to the great body of consumers but prejudicial to the best interests of the country. The present tariff is substantially the same that was adopted soon after the commencement of the civil war. The government was then engaged in a life or death struggle for the maintainence of its unity, and large revenues were required not only for current use but to strengthen the national credit for borrowing purposes, and so large was the demand of the government for goods of various descriptions that there were very large importations, notwithstanding the high duties to which they were subjected. When the war was ended and the government ceased to be a large buyer the tariff which was a war measure should have been carefully revised in order that it might be accommodated to the changed condition of the country. This was not and has not been done. Some changes have been made. Some articles have been put upon the free list and upon others the duties have been reduced, but it is substantially the same tariff that was created in 1862—a tariff designed for revenue but highly protective, and of some articles prohibitory. In examining the bill the leading features of which have been carefully preserved one can not fail to perceive that in its adoption congress must have been greatly misled. Let us look at some of the articles on which duties were imposed.

Salt—is used by every family in the United States, and immense quantities are used in curing meats and fish. It is produced largely in many states and the production could be increased to an almost unlimited extent. The duty on salt was and I think still is 80% per cent when imported in bags and 169 per cent when imported in bulk. Very little, of course is imported and every one in this broad country who uses salt is taxed not for the benefit of the public revenue but for the enrichment of a few manufacturers or owners of salt mines.

Blankets—valued at over 40 cents a pound up to 80 cents were subject to a specific duty of 20 cents a pound and 35 per cent ad valorem. Such blankets as are used by millions of people in the United States cost in England about $1.75 a pair, the duties on which were nearly $1.50. Can such a duty be rightfully continued?

Steel rails—The duty on steel rails which was $25 per ton has been reduced, but no revenue is derived from them, as they can be made as cheaply in the United States as in Europe.

Scores of articles might be mentioned to show how preposterous the tariff was and is, in some respects with regard to revenue and how unjust to the great body of taxpayers, but I will only mention one more.

Copper—The duty on copper was, and I suppose still is, (I have no copy of the tariff at hand) 5 cents a pound, which is prohibitory. None is imported but considerable quantities are exported. Here is an article which is taxed so heavily that none can be imported and the excess of production over the very large home demand is sent to foreign markets. The duty on copper has enriched the owners of copper mines, but it has yielded no revenue to the government. Its continuance is without a shadow of justification as it adds largely to the cost of an article in general use, and nobody is benefited by it except the favored few in whose interest it was imposed.

Every one must admit that in respect to such articles as have been named, the tariff should be amended but its supporters contend that in its general scope it is right and it is defended on such grounds as the following:

First—That it has stimulated production in duced the construction of iron mills and cotton and woolen factories put in motion machinery of all descriptions, and has thus added largely to the national wealth.

Second—That it has advanced wages and greatly improved the condition of the laboring classes.

Third—That by stimulating production it has created home competition as the result of which the goods which are most generally and extensively in use have been cheapened, to the manifest advantage of the users.

Are these claims in behalf of our protective tariff well founded? Let us see.

First—It is admitted that the tariff has stimulated production, the evidence of which is seen in the mills and factories and machine shops which have been constructed all over the country within the last twenty years. But what are the offsets? By stimulating protection it has increased manufacturing power beyond the needs of the country. There are few mills or factories in any branch of manufacturing that are worked to their full capacity. On the contrary, it is estimated that if all of them should be actively employed for six months they would be able to supply all demands for a year. It is now well understood that the manufacturing power of the country has been so increased by the tariff stimulus that combinations—trusts, as they are called—have been resorted to from necessity to limit its exercise so that the supply may not exceed the demand. The expedient cannot be long continued, and nothing can prevent serious trouble with manufacturers and their employes but wider markets for their productions and one fails to see how these can be obtained without radical changes in our protective and restrictive policy.

That the wealth of the country has been very largely increased by our manufacturers is obvious. It would be impossible for immense quantities of raw materials to be converted by labor and machinery into finished goods without large accessions to the national wealth. Manufacturing has made some people wealthy and their wealth is a part of the national wealth but it has not been widely diffused. It has been confined to the favored few.

The country has been enriched by its manufacture but its much greater gains have been the result of the conversion of wild lands into productive farms. It is by agriculture mainly that the nation has been enriched, and the wealth thus gained has not been at the expense of other interests. On the contrary, it has been widely diffused, all other interests have been very largely dependent upon it and yet this great interest has received no favors from congress, nor has it had in that body any especial representatives. I ought in saying that agriculture had received no favors from congress to except wool growing. The duty on wool is continued to satisfy the demands of the wool producers of the West and if the protective policy is wise these demands are reasonable. This duty, however, stands right in the way of the woolen manufacturers of the East who cannot make certain classes of goods that are in demand without foreign wool. Here we have, on the one hand a demand for a tax upon wool on the ground that sheep raising cannot be carried on successfully without it. On the other hand we have the woolen manufacturers complaining of the duty on the ground that their business is imperilled by it. This antagonism is one of the many illustrations of the impolicy of the protective tariff.

Second—It is contended that the tariff has advanced wages and been a boon to the laboring classes. From the tone of our protection journals one would suppose that it is the welfare of the laborers in which protectionists are chiefly interested. Wages are higher in the United States than in Europe, but they are lower now than they have been and unless immigration is checked they will soon go down to about the average European standard. Were it not that the consequences of continued immigration are likely to be serious, it would be a matter for ridicule that manufacturers who advocate protection for the reason that labor is higher in this country than it is in Europe hail with pleasure if they do not directly aid immigration as the means of reducing the cost of it. Wages as has been said are higher in the United States than they are in Europe but so are clothing and many other articles which families of laborers need. I doubt very much that the laborers in United States factories are better off at the end of the year than laborers in British factories. As long as there is free trade in labor as long as our ports are open to all comers, there will be all things considered little difference in the price of labor between this country and other countries.

Third—It is contended that the tariff by stimulating production has created home competition by which goods in common use have been greatly cheapened to the manifest benefit of the users. It is true that such goods are much lower in price than formerly were but not by reason of home competition. They are lower because by the great improvements in machinery the [illegible] [illegible] cheaper. The tariff is entitled to no credit on this score, on the contrary by preventing our manufacturers from competing with our own manufacturers by [illegible] the latter the [illegible] of the foreign market. It not only prevents this [illegible] but it [illegible] combinations to prevent free trade at home.

Speaking of the objections to the present tariff Mr McCulloch says:

Some of the iron mills in Massachusetts are now severely suffering from the high duties on the iron which is needed in especial [illegible]. Here is [illegible] the same antagonism of interests between the iron [illegible] owners of Massachusetts and the [illegible] owners of Pennsylvania that there is between the woolen mill owners of New England and the sheep raisers of Ohio. The woolen manufacturers need a reduction of duty on certain classes of wool—the wool producers are opposed to such a reduction. The iron mill owners of New England are urgent not only for a reduction of duties upon certain kinds of iron but upon coal; also Pennsylvania is decidedly against both. How can these antagonisms be healed?

Cotton produced in the United States is bought by British manufacturers and made up by them into fabrics of various kinds for sale in all markets from which they are not excluded. Cotton cloths are made chiefly by machinery in the invention and use of which Americans are unsurpassed—unequaled it might be said—by any other people. Can the British manufacturer pay the freight both ways and be a dangerous competitor in cotton goods of our own markets?

Wool is largely produ The foreign wool that in South America and which Great Britain In its manufacture, machinery comes into by hand. The only facturers of woolen can rightfully claim is that the foreign wool is needed for certain class high duties. With free wool should not fear compet

LEARNED TO WRITE AT 65.

An Aged Mother Practices Penmanship for Her Son's Benefit.

I heard a minister say that during the civil war he was preaching to a congregation in a little country town in Pennsylvania and among his members was a woman sixty-five years old who had a son in the army, writes a Brooklyn Citizen correspondent. She was telling the clergyman, one day when he had called at her house, how glad she'd be if she knew how to write, for there were so many family secrets that she did not like to divulge when dictating a letter to be sent to her boy. The parson said:

"My good woman, never too old to learn; why not learn to write?"

To his surprise she immediately brought him some foolscap and asked him to write her some copies, which he did, and in three months from that time he had occasion to call at her house, and to his utter astonishment she brought him a plainly written letter to read that she had intended for her son. An indefatigable will, perseverance and love for her son accomplished what she desired in spite of the drawbacks of old age.

The Montana Method.

Helena Daily Journal.

Let it never be forgotten that the so-called majority upon whose shoulders Joseph K. Toole expects to mount into the governor's chair were 350 Dagoes who were naturalized after Marcus Daly had sent them to be registered, and who voted in the American state of Montana by handing to the judges a placard bearing these words:

"I can neither write nor speak the English language. I desire to vote the straight democratic ticket."

What a commentary on free government! The votes of those 350 Dagoes, not one of whom had the slightest interest in or concern for Montana, not one of whom had the faintest conception of the significance of his vote—the votes of those creatures are the votes by which Mr. Toole claims to be governor. If this is a victory, how proud he must feel in its achievement!

A Composition on Man.

Lippincott's.

The following is an extract from a real composition written by a small schoolboy in New Jersey:

The subject given by the teacher was the extensive one of "Man."

Here's what the small boy wrote:

"Man is a wonderful animal. He has eyes, ears, mouth.

"His ears are mostly for catching cold in and having the earache.

"The nose is to get sniffles with.

"A man's body is split half way up and he walks on the split ends."

Royal Extravagance.

Norristown Herald.

Queen Victoria recently paid $25 for a dog. Such extravagance in a woman whose son is hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt is lamentable. If she had advertised in a daily paper, "Dog lost—$1 reward"—more than 200 canines of various breeds would have been presented at her front door before sundown. Even a head that wears a crown sometimes lacks forethought.

Force of Habit.

Waiter—How will you have it?

Easy on the Family.

The Epoch.

Ed—My grandfather died this morning.

Al—And I suppose you will have to pay for the funeral?

Ed—Oh, no, the city pays the expenses; grandpa was hung.

The Body of a Dead Man Found at Bridal Veil.

MEETING OF THE O. & T. COMPANY

Work on the Cable Road Being Vigorously Pushed Forward.

SEID BACK IS SUED FOR $8000

Oars and Rowlocks—New Lodge of Elks—The Tramping Match—Portland Complimented—Hungry Bruin—Other News.

A dispatch was received by THE OREGONIAN last evening from Dr. E. C. Pentland, of Independence, Polk county, stating Constable Kelly, of that place, yesterday arrested a man who answers the description of Gay, the fellow who stole Dr. Giesy's horse, and who escaped from the county jail a week ago last night. It is quite probable that the constable has got the right man and it will be a good thing if he has. Judging from the steel iron plates and iron grates lying on the curb near the county jail there will soon be some cells there which cannot be dug out with a toothpick.

WAS HE A VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY?

The Lifeless Body of a Man Found at Bridal Veil.

Two Portland gentlemen who returned to the city last evening from Bridal Veil report that they found in a cave near that place yesterday the body of a man who had evidently been dead but a short time. A telegram received by Coroner DeLin yesterday was to the same effect. THE OREGONIAN's informant stated that the hole where the body was found had apparently been made by blasting rocks. The deceased was a man of probably 45 years of age, whose identity will be unknown until the arrival of the coroner to-day and the proper investigation has been made.

The man was unknown to all who saw the body after its being found though it was ascertained with a tolerable degree of certainty that he had been seen on Thursday last in Bridal Veil, and when last noticed was leaving the place on the road towards Latourelle.

When found he was lying upon his back. He had evidently been trying to light a fire, as some kindling wood had been gathered near him. The only evidence of the cause of his death was a black spot upon his forehead, which was not investigated, pending the coroner's arrival.

PROPOSING TO DISSOLVE.

An Important Meeting of the Oregon & Transcontinental To-morrow.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company has been called by T. H. Tyndale, its secretary, to meet to-morrow noon.

The meeting is to consider the question of reducing the capital stock of the company, and, in case it shall be decided to make any reduction, to pass such resolutions and take such action as may be necessary under the laws of the state of Oregon to confer authority upon the corporation and its directors and officers to make such reduction as shall be decided upon by the vote of a majority of the capital stock of the company.

The meeting is also called for the further object and purpose of considering the question of authorizing the dissolution of the Oregon & Transcontinental Company, the settling of its business and the disposition of its property in the manner provided by the statutes of Oregon, or the transfer of its property to a new corporation to be formed. In case it shall be decided to dissolve the corporation, the meeting is to pass such resolutions and to take such action as may be necessary to confer upon the corporation and its officers and directors full power and authority to carry into effect the decision of the stockholders in the premises.

WORK ON THE CABLE ROAD.

Large Force Employed and Great Energy Displayed All Along the Line.

Work was pushed "all along the line" on the cable railway yesterday, a large force being employed. Not even at night does work cease, as on Saturday night a force of men was busy, under charge of Mr. G. W. Lynch, overhauling and perfecting the construction of the crossing at Fifth and Washington streets, which is now in perfect condition. A reporter strolled along the line yesterday, and found men working on nearly every block from Morrison up Fifth and Jefferson to some distance beyond Twelfth, and also at the power house on Fifteenth. For the greater part of some five or six blocks south of Morrison street the space on each side of the slot between the tracks has been nicely paved with Belgian blocks and grouted. The P. M. and P. Co. are now laying first-class blocks all along the line, and the paving will soon be completed as far as the concrete conduit for the cable is finished. On Fifth street a gang of men were going ahead with the grouting of the pavement completed. As probably many do not know what "grouting" is, it may be said that it consists of pouring a thin mixture of sand and cement into the crevices between the paving blocks till they are filled, and when this has set the whole is like a piece of solid rock. After the grouting has been completed, a barricade is built along the track which is left there for two weeks till the cement is set.

Where the cable road turns from Fifth up Jefferson a very fine curve has been put in. It is hard on a cable going around curves, and at the track which the cars run up on a long line of bearing pulleys are placed to receive the strain from the cable. On the down side the cable runs off the curve and goes around a pulley sunk in a pit in the street and then enters the conduit below the curve. In going up, the grip will hold fast to the cable, but in coming down and making the curve the grip is thrown off and the car goes around the corner by gravity.

Between Eighth and Tenth streets on Jefferson a force of men were mixing concrete, putting in the moulds for the conduit and packing concrete around them. From Tenth to Twelfth the tracklayers were at work and the gang straightening the rails was on Twelfth. Beyond Twelfth the graders were excavating, one trench being completed some distance and the yokes set in and men adjusting them to their proper positions. The tracklayers are close after the graders, and Mr. Thompson says he would put 100 more men at work if he could get them. All along the line, from Twelfth street to the power-house at the foot of the hill on Fifteenth, rails and slot iron and yokes are scattered in profusion.

The street in the vicinity of the power house is a quagmire from hauling boilers, and other heavy iron work and castings are scattered about on every hand. The power house is roofed in, and the huge boilers are being put in position. The car house adjoining is nearly ready for putting on the roof, which will be done by Thursday. A force are at work in the pit in front of the power house for the big pulley. A huge awning is stretched over the pit to keep out the rain, and everything is being done to push the work as much as possible. If the council grant the company a franchise to build down Alder street from Fifth to Front, as it is supposed they will, Wednesday night, that branch will be built in short order.

SUIT BROUGHT FOR $8000.

A Gang of Chinamen Want Their Money—Disastrous Fishing Season.

A gang of Chinese sent to Alaska last spring by Seid Back to work in a cannery there, returned to San Francisco a short time since, and have brought suit there against Seid Back to recover several thousand dollars alleged to be due them. Seid Back has gone to San Francisco to attend to the matter. He claims that the men are indebted to him from $80 to $100 each, or a total of some $8000. When he made a contract with the company they guaranteed him that they would pack a certain number of cases. On the strength of this guaranty he advanced money, provisions, etc., to the men, who contracted to do the work of the cannery by the piece, never doubting but that there would be plenty of work to do. The season, however, proved disastrous to this particular gang, as the cannerymen, lured by a report of vast quantities of fish at a hitherto untried place, located there and had very poor luck, and the men did not get work enough to do to pay what had been advanced to them. As the company had guaranteed a certain amount of work to Seid Back to insure him against loss, the men now think they can make him indemnify them.

The foreman of another gang arrived here from Alaska a few days since, feeling very happy, as his men had had good luck and earned a big lot of money. While Seid Back has law and right on his side, he went to San Francisco with some misgivings as to getting justice there, where bad men and shyster lawyers are so plentiful.

GOING TO ROW ALL WINTER.

A Newsy Chat With a Prominent Member of the Portland Rowing Association.

Several members of the P. R. A. were out rowing on the river yesterday.

"When are you going into winter quarters?" was asked of one of them.

"Not as long as the weather and interest continues as at present," was the reply. "We are working later than ever before. It is intended to keep the boathouse at its present moorings, contrary to custom, as long as the weather will permit."

"Is the association adding to its property?"

"Yes, we have just put two new pleasure boats into the boathouse. Then we have already ordered for next season's work, from Davies, the Boston boatmaker, a training boat, working four with coxswain. It is the club's intention also to order two new fours and a couple of singles."

"What are the club's financial prospects?"

"We close the season out of debt, a thing we have never been able to do before. Our membership, about 130, is larger than ever before, and interest has been stronger than ever this season."

"Any prospects of getting outside clubs here to row against you?"

"Yes, there is great probability of Tacoma and Victoria sending down teams. The matter has been informally discussed by members coming and going, and we shall probably invite them to come down. If they do, we shall endeavor to receive them 'with hospitable arms to bloody graves.'

"We received a letter from the Garfield beach club, of Salt Lake City, some time since, offering to come here, but we were unable to except their offer at that time. Hamm, the oarsman, spoke favorably to them of such a venture when he went from here there. He spoke highly of our rowing and our course. Such an arrangement will probably be made next season and may include other Eastern clubs.

THE PAVILION WALKING MATCH.

W. S. Clarke, of Astoria, Walks Easily Away With the First Money.

The go-as-you-please contest at the pavilion closed last night at 11 o'clock. The attendance was not such as managers covet. The proprietor of the race, Mr. J. F. Gerah, of Fourth and Yamhill, being, according to his own statement, some $220 loser on the deal. Some thirty people stuck to the show all night Saturday night, thus securing full equivalent for their admission fee. Some of them were scorers for the contestants, and watched the one of their number who was scoring at any given time.

Morgan lost his grip about 8:30 yesterday morning, and retired with 67 miles; Howe followed suit at 10 o'clock with 83. The lady stopped at 4:35 with 101, and Hart at 5 o'clock with 87.

Following is the complete score:

Starters.	Miles.	Laps.
Faulkner	123	3
Morgan	67	0
Howe	83	8
Caroni	86	1
Clarke	127	0
Hart, jr., (colored)	87	0
Schroeder	76	7
Jennie Moore	101	2

The first prize was awarded to Clarke, $125; Faulkner, second, $75; Miss Moore, third, $50.

Clarke is a sprinter from Astoria, and a member of the hose team. He is a well-knit fellow of about 23, and says he was barred out of the Caledonia Club half-mile contest, at San Francisco, last July.

The young lady, who entered under the name of Miss Jennie Moore, thought she had done well enough to avow her real name. This she did by inscribing in the reporter's notebook, "Stella M. Zaroni."

She said she had recently come here from San Francisco, that the walking had been pretty hard on her, and she didn't think she wanted to try it again. She was never in a race before, and even with the handicap of thirty miles given her, she made a very good record.

THEY ARE HOMEWARD BOUND.

Portland Comes in for Some Very Handsome Compliments.

Among the delegates to the annual Knights Templar conclave at Washington, D. C., who are finding their way home these days, a reporter met at the Esmond yesterday a party of six Californians. The three gentlemen of the party were F. G. Teed, eminent commander of his commandery and city clerk of Los Angeles; D. W. Martin, a supervisor of Alameda county, and J. D. Chase, mayor of Santa Cruz.

"We left Oakland pier," said Mr. Teed, "five weeks ago to-night, 115 strong, and traveled in special cars to Washington city."

The party had not intended stopping in Portland, but were compelled to spend the day here through a delay in trains, which caused them to miss connection. They all, however, declared themselves delighted with their brief stay here, particularly on account of the opportunity to see the beauty of Portland on so clear a day.

"It is a pleasant contrast, I assure you," said Mr. Teed, "to the mud towns of the Sound country. I don't like 'em. Portland suits me best. Its men, its buildings, its streets have the unmistakable evidence of thrift, business enterprise, ginger and solid resources. I was in Portland last winter when I made a trip to Alaska, and had an opportunity to see the place pretty thoroughly. Those fellows up on the Sound always seem to me to be crazy to make money, without having anything to show for it.

"It is amusing, also, to see how anxious they are for THE OREGONIAN. They wait for it to get the news. It's the same way all along the Northern Pacific. THE OREGONIAN is the first decent paper we could get west of St. Paul."

The party left for home overland on the Southern Pacific yesterday afternoon.

THE BEAR WANTED THE GROUSE.

And He Made the Hair Stand Erect on the Head of One Man.

A few days since Mr. William Starr, who has a pre-emption claim in the woods back of Mooresville, Columbia county, started out to visit the place and look after his crop of potatoes. On his way out he shot a grouse, and on arriving at his cabin cooked it for his supper, and as he ate it scattered the bones about the door. He then lighted a lamp and was reading, when he heard a noise at the door, and, looking up, saw a big black bear looking at him, apparently waiting to be asked in. Mr. Starr jumped for his gun, which was loaded with birdshot, and the bear, seeing he was not welcome, walked off. But the taste and smell of grouse haunted him, and he soon returned, to find the door barred against him.

Now whether the bear thought that by eating Mr. Starr his craving for grouse would be satisfied, or what his ideas were, is not known, but he began to scratch at the door, and every time he scratched Starr's hair rose on end, and this was repeated so often that now he can't stop it and his friends think he is wearing a fright wig, of some new patent. He has not yet decided whether to abandon his claim or to hire some one to kill the bear.

TYPHOID FEVER IS PREVALENT.

The Health of the City Would Be Materially Promoted by Cleaning Back Yards.

"Strange to say," said a prominent physician yesterday, "typhoid fever is again on the increase, and some of the cases we now have under treatment are severe ones. We attribute it to the changeable weather and to the rubbish and filth which has been allowed to accumulate in different sections of the city. We had considerable typhoid fever to contend with some time ago, but the epidemic had nearly run its course. Now we have as many, if not more cases than we had before. In the Portland hospital there are perhaps from eight to ten cases, while both the St. Vincent and Good Samaritan hospitals have about twice as many. Then the private practice of Portland physicians include perhaps several hundred fever patients.

"We have about come to the conclusion that there is no need of having so much fever in this city," continued the physician, "and the only reason that we have it is because the sanitary conditions of the city are not what they should be. It is reasonable to expect some fever at this season of the year always, as weak constitutions are naturally liable to be effected by the advent of the rainy season, but there is no need of having so much of it. The city can hardly boast of its cleanliness and much can be done to improve its healthfulness. There are many vacant lots where rubbish of all kinds has been allowed to accumulate, and the health officer would not be overstepping his prerogatives if he were to notify the citizens in general to clean out their back yards."

STAR CHAMBER POLICE PROCEEDINGS

Two Men Charged With Larceny, Still They May be Innocent.

Upon the transcript at the police station appear the names of William Russell and Ben Deering, both charged with larceny. They were arrested by officers Barry, Griffin and Day, on First and D streets at half past three o'clock yesterday afternoon. What they are in for nobody seems to know. Officer Gritzmacher, who ostensibly holds the position of chief of the detective force, says that the case is not ripe yet.

"Then perhaps they did not steal anything?" queried the reporter.

"Probably not," answered the astute detective.

"Is it best that I make that statement then?" again persisted the reporter.

"You can do as you like about that," was the short reply.

Thus the matter stands. The men are charged with larceny which is placed on public record, and yet the head of the detective force either knows not, or is not at liberty to state, what particular crimes they committed. This method of police procedure may be satisfactory to the police, but it is hardly what the public expect of them, and it is certainly not justice to the prisoners under arrest.

"It is possible," suggested a gentleman on the street yesterday evening, "that the shrewd detectives keep these men in jail in hopes that someone of them will metamorphose into a Gibbs."

A BIG IRRIGATING SCHEME.

An Immense Land Grant by Peruvian Congress to a Citizen of Portland.

The Peruvian government has decreed an immense concession to our fellow citizen, Major Alfred F. Sears, and it has been confirmed with great unanimity by the congress. This concession is to build an irrigation work in the department of Piura, the most northern of that republic, and carries with it the right to 750,000 acres of public lands. The water rents are made obligatory on the people of the district, and are secured by their crops.

The studies and location of this work were made by Major Sears in 1874 and 1875, and the grant is the result of a three years' struggle on his part and that of his friends. Important American and English houses have already offered to raise the capital. The English house is known in this country as bankers and cotton brokers. The concern has a house in Piura, which is a cotton-producing district. The work embraces a dam eighty feet high and 4000 feet long, by which is formed an artificial lake eighteen miles long and three miles wide. This lake will be navigable and feed navigable canals to a point near the coast.

IT WAS THE NATURE OF THE BEAST.

Probably every one in the country has read the beautiful poem, written long ago, in which it is intimated that bears and lions growl and fight because it is their nature to do so. The leopard cannot change his spots, owing to his ignorance of hair dye, and the bear continues to growl and fight, because it suits him. The grizzly in the bear pit in the park is no exception to the rule, and a few days since he attempted to eat up one of the young bears recently put in with him. The young bear was probably too fresh, as other cubs sometimes are, and the grizzly resented the gobbling of all the peanuts and candy by the cub by biting it in a manner which has laid it up for repairs. Parkkeeper Myers has the suffering cub under his care and hopes to restore it to health.

WEEKLY SPORTING REVIEW.

In the Prize Ring, and on the Exciting Diamond Field.

Joe McAuliffe's Stock—Jack Dempsey's Dream—Report Denied—Trotting Season—The Australian Sculler—Other Notes.

Toff Wall wants a go at Jack Fallon in London, but not to exceed twelve rounds. Fallon is the man who had such hard work to defeat Tom Lees.

The present month is full of promise for San Francisco in the boxing line, three matches between prominent boxers in as many clubs being on the cards.

Frank Murphy has been trying to get on a match in the East with Cal McCarthy or some other man in the 120-pound class, but with poor prospects of success.

Jake Kilrain, who seems to be getting into the fakir brigade with great celerity, has arranged a match with Scholes of Toronto, who was worsted by Charley Mitchell.

The Occidental club, of San Francisco, has signed Frank Glover and E. Smith as the next pair of heavy hitters who will amuse—or rather interest, the members of a "scientific" set-to to a finish.

Jack Dempsey says that his dream did not influence him to hand in his resignation to the directors of the California Athletic Club. Jack adds that California is good enough for him, and will be ever so much better when he gets another opportunity to give La Blanche the right tip.—San Francisco Call.

Frank, better known as "Fakir" Murphy, who has fought both Ike Weir and Australian Murphy, is telling the Boston and New York sporting scribes that the "Belfast Spider" will cut the Australian into ribbons. Weir is a harder hitter and a cleverer pugilist every way, according to "Fakir" Murphy.

The Olympic club, it is said, will introduce a few "dark horses" in the near future boxing tournament. The days of the "dark horse" boxer in this city are about over, and any man of any account is so well known in this enlightened age of fistiana that "the unknown" will not be in it after the first series of contests. An amateur or professional boxer who is not a first-class artist now need not hope to carry off many honors in pugilism in San Francisco.—San Francisco Call.

Joe McAuliffe's stock has gone up wonderfully in the East since his easy defeat of the chicken-hearted Pat Killen. Joe is now talked of as the only man fit to stand up to the redoubtable John L., who has announced his intention of re-entering the ring and fighting any man in the world under Queensberry rules, Peter Jackson barred. It would be a queer shuffle of the cards if John L., who is certainly not getting younger or better every day, should wind up his career in the California Club with Joe McAuliffe as the muscular cause of his collapse.—San Francisco Chronicle.

There is a strong probability that Pat Farrell, the promising young middleweight pugilist of Pittsburg, Pa., will be matched against LaBlanche. Farrell undoubtedly is in excellent health, and, excepting his extra weight, is in first-class condition. He is a much improved boxer since the time when he met and knocked McCaffrey out. He is not only more active, but is a better hitter, and certainly exercises better judgment. He has been a most careful student of the "manly art" for months, and from a pugilistic standpoint, has been a great gainer. Probably a better opponent for LaBlanche could not be secured, because his style is in many respects similar to that of the Marine's, while Farrell is, undoubtedly, a harder hitter than the vanquisher of Dempsey. At any rate the Pittsburger's friends are in hopes that a contest between him and LaBlanche will be arranged. If it is, several Pittsburgers will travel to San Francisco to see the encounter.

BASEBALL NOTES.

So the Giants "got there!"

Manager Mutrie is now called the silver-tongued orator.

The only member of last year's Chicago team, who has already signed is Anson.

Griffin and Shindle expect to go to California either with the Boston or Brooklyn aggregation.

The shortest League game of the season was finished in an hour and a quarter on the Chicago grounds.

Harry F. Donovan, a newspaper man, is one of the incorporators of the baseball Brotherhood in Chicago.

President Parsons, of Louisville, has all the baseball experience he wants and is ready to receive bids for the franchise of the club.

Fred Carroll, of the Pittsburg club, announces that he has retired from the diamond to go into business with his father in California.

The annual meetings of the various baseball organizations occur on these dates: International Association, November 20; National League and American Association, November 13; Western Association, November 15.

For his splendid running catches Elmer Foster is dubbed "Spokane" in Minneapolis. Western people can't understand how he was outclassed in the New York team and think he was frozen out to gratify Eastern jealousy of Western talent.

The St. Louis team has been ruined by Von der Ahe. The pennant has been lost through Von der Ahe's mismanagement, and St. Louis has thus been robbed of an opportunity to win back the glory she lost in the struggle with New York last season.—Star Sayings.

President Leach, of the Philadelphia club, is of the same opinion as John Morrill in regard to the change in the rules. He thinks that the pitcher should be set back five feet, and that the number of balls should be increased to five. He also favors the substitution of rubber bases, set flush in the ground, for the crippling articles now in use.

Manager Tom Loftus, of the Cleveland's, says it would pay the League clubs to form a pool to be divided up into prizes for the different teams. "Let the first prize," said he, in speaking of the scheme, "be $1,000, for instance; the second $800, the third $600, the fourth $500, the fifth $400, the sixth $300, the seventh $200, and the eighth $100. This would give the men something to play for, and better games would be the result."

President Young denies that there is any foundation for the report that a combination has been formed between the League and American Association. He says the League was founded upon an eight-club basis, and it will hardly depart from that idea at this late day. A ten or twelve league would be unwieldy, and produce too many complications; hence he takes no stock in the statements attributed to Messrs. Spalding and Von der Ahe published in this morning's dispatches.

A long letter was received at league headquarters to-day from Mr. Spaulding, in which he assures Mr. Young that he is in no way responsible for many of the alleged interviews with him that have been telegraphed throughout the country. He states that he has been credited with giving expression to views that were simply imaginary on the part of certain writers, and on the other hand his silence has been purposely misconstrued to give color to certain speculations.

John Ward, the president of the Baseball Players' Brotherhood, is of the opinion that the impression which has gained ground among the league managers that they have a prior claim on the players after their contracts have run out, and that the reserve rule will hold in law, is all a mistake. Ward thinks that the word "reserve" does not bind a player against the whole world, as some of the managers would have it understood. Ward intimates that the League has forfeited its rights under the contract by certain illegal breaches.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Although several of the League clubs have commenced to sign players from minor league clubs, Mr. Young does not look for any definite movement toward signing the old players until after the November meetings are over. He has not made any reclassifications under the new rule for the reason that none of the clubs have yet sent their annual affidavits showing the amount of salary paid to the various players. He insists that the classification is not a dead letter, and predicts that it will be maintained in the best interests of the League.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

Wm. Howard, the jockey, will probably ride for Senator Hearst next season.

A wrestling match will take place in Victoria, B. C., November 13, between Cameron and McLeod.

Kittleman and Skinner, the professional sprinters, practice at the Manhattan Athletic Club grounds nowadays. In addition to being a wonderful runner, Kittleman is quite an all-round athlete, being very clever with hammer and weights.

The trotting season last summer in St. Paul, Minn., was not a success. The Driving Club of that city had to "pony up" $1750 to pay off expenses.

News comes from Pensacola, Fla., that one Henry G. Klink walked a mile in 6 min. 20 sec. If this should be authenticated it will supersede George Perkins's 6 min. 23 sec.

J. M. Cowie, the celebrated English amateur sprinter, who is in New York on a visit, says that he has no intention of trying to break the 125-yard record while here. He has not run for three years, and is much over weight. He is a very compactly-built man, and tips the beam at about 175 pounds. His running weight used to be 146 pounds. He thinks with practice he can run as fast as ever.

Bethune is ambitious to run Samuels, the colored Australian sprinter, who is regarded as one of the best men in the world. Bethune will make a match for $2500 a side, if Samuels can be induced to come to this country. At present there is little for him to do in Australia, as every one is aware of his speed, and in the handicaps he would get a mark that would almost amount to shutting him out.

Next to the Dwyers comes Mr. August Belmont, the banker turfman, whose flyers are already snugly housed in their winter stalls. Mr. Belmont has done wonderfully well this season, and if it had not been for a few most surprising reverses, he would surely have been at the top of the column. As it is, the Nursery racers have turned no less than $126,000 into the pockets of their owner.

It is interesting to note that each one of the dozen sires most successful this year is either a son, grandson, or great grandson of Rysdyk's Hambletonian, and, with the exception of Governor Sprague, the descent from "the old horse" is through the male lines. But though each of the thirteen years that have elapsed since his death have shown similar proof of his greatness his bones still lie neglected in their grave in Orange county, and less than half the sum required for his monument has been subscribed.—New York Herald.

Searle, the great Australian sculler, is now homeward bound. He has left English soil and is now on his way to the other side of the globe. Before stepping aboard ship he made a statement that he is extremely anxious of rowing O'Connor, Teemer, Gaudaur or anybody else for $5000 a side and the championship of the world. There is little chance of his securing a race with any American sculler for a long time. Professional rowing is at too low an ebb in this country to expect backing for a man sufficient to enable him to visit Australia to row Searle.

St. Carlo, the two-year-old son of St. Blaise and Carina, is the largest contributor to the total, his winnings amounting to $28,000. Had not Chaos unexpectedly beaten him for the Futurity, St. Carlo would have topped all the other winning horses of the year and would have nailed the "maroon and scarlet" above all others. Raceland follows St. Carlo with $26,000 to his credit, and third comes Magnate with $12,000. Padishah is next, with a few hundreds less. Fides heads the Belmont fillies with $9 000 won. Fourteen others contributed sums varying from the $8,000 of Zephyrus down to Phœbe's $250, while Cornelia, Her Highness and Cara Mia were the only ones that started but did not help to pay for their corn.—New York Herald.

These are, in some respects, the retrospective days of racing. People who are interested in the turf now look back to the sport of the past summer and find pleasure in reviewing the results of the season. Some of the larger and more powerful racing establishments have gone into retirement for the winter, and the statisticians have already begun to figure out the amounts won by the several stables. The Dwyer Brothers, as usual, head the list of winning owners, but as they are still running a number of their horses it is impossible as yet to compute the sum total of their successes for the year. It is certain, however, that they will retire with but little less than $140,000 to their credit, in the shape of stakes and purses taken by their racing representatives.

ITEMS GATHERED AROUND ALBINA.

Funeral of Mrs. Hackett—Electric Cars—Pleasant Social—Slight Fire—Personal.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Levina Hackett took place Sunday morning from the residence, W. J. Colville, of Portland, officiating. The rooms were filled with sorrowing relatives and friends, and the floral tributes of lovely wreaths and crosses were numerous. The deceased had been ill for some months, but was not thought seriously so when she passed away suddenly Friday at midnight. She leaves a husband and five grown up sons and daughters to mourn the loss of a good wife and mother. Mrs. Hackett had lived in Albina for many years, and was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends, who followed the remains to their last resting place.

ALL IN GOOD ORDER.

The electric street cars were in running order for the first time Thursday evening, when a few citizens took a ride across the bridge and back to Russell street. On Friday a great many took advantage of the fine day and a free ride to patronize this new line. All seemed delighted with the trip from Third street, Portland, to within half a mile of St. Johns. Albina is jubilant, as she has the honor of having the first electric railway in Oregon. As soon as advisable a time schedule will be issued.

A SLIGHT BLAZE.

Sunday morning about 7 o'clock an alarm of fire was given which was found to be in the two-story building belonging to Peter Schrantz. A defective flue on the second floor caused the fire and being between the ceiling it was hard to reach, but by chopping through the rustic on the outside and flooding the ceiling with water the fire was soon extinguished. Damages about $200.

PLEASANT SOCIAL.

The Hallowe'en social given Thursday evening by the Ladies' Union Relief society was a very successful affair. The attendance was quite large, and the many tricks and mystical games played caused a great deal of amusement for the young folks as well as older ones. The receipts were about $15 above expenses.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. A. L. Allen has returned from her trip to Wyoming.

Mrs. Baker, of McMinnville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Dr. Boyd.

A. Kraeft has sold his property on Williams avenue for $2500.

Miss Carrie Rodgers has gone to La Grande to visit her sister, Mrs. Seely.

PERSONAL.

Hon. W. R. Ellis, of Heppner, was in the city yesterday.

R. J. Rodgers, a prominent Eastern Oregon stockman, is at the St. Charles.

A. G. Hawley, a Tacoma druggist, was at the Esmond yesterday, en route for a pleasure trip East.

C. W. Greene, representing heavy Chicago capital, is at the St. Charles. Mr. Greene has been making a tour of the Pacific Northwest, and places Portland easily first as a place for profitable investment.

Hon. H. W. Fairweather, senator-elect to the Washington legislature, from Lincoln county, and vice-chairman of the republican state central committee, passed through the city yesterday, on his way to Olympia.

Mr. E. B. Piper, city editor of the Seattle Post Intelligencer, passed through the city yesterday. He had been visiting friends at Salem for several days, and was on his way to Olympia, where he goes to represent the Post-Intelligencer in the legislature, that will meet at the capital to-morrow.

MY GOD! WHAT HAVE I DONE?

Supt. Wetzell Realizes His Errors and Promises to Redeem Himself.

He Says a Reconciliation Will Be Made Between Himself and Mrs. Wetzell—Divorce Suit to Be Withdrawn.

"If you were to go to my office to-day," said Professor W. A. Wetzell to an OREGONIAN reporter yesterday, you would see my desk strewn with unfinished papers, letters partly written, envelopes half addressed, just as they were where I was using them Saturday afternoon when the sheriff laid down before me the summons and complaint in my wife's action for a divorce. I seemed all at once to awake to a sense of my actual condition, and to realize what I had been doing. All I could do was to bury my face in my hands and cry: 'My God! What have I done?' I rushed from the office and do not know even whether I locked the door or not."

SURPRISED AND GRIEVED.

"Were you not anticipating such an action?"

"Well, I can truthfully say that I did not think such a course would be taken. I had confidence all along that the matter would be settled before such a contingency arrived."

The professor's manner fully justified his statement. He was evidently laboring under painful and sorrowful excitement. His usually frank and cheerful bearing had given place to "the trappings and the suits of woe," which in his case unmistakably "denoted truly."

FIFTEEN HAPPY YEARS.

"I love my wife," continued the professor. "She is the noblest and best of women. During our fifteen years of wedded life we have been as happy as man and wife can be. I have worked hard at my profession, she at hers, and to these efforts we have added the loving labor of home, building, as our pretty home in East Portland, which you have seen, bears witness. Oh, this is so unfortunate, so unfortunate!" and grief choked his utterance.

"You admit, do you not, professor, that you have been indiscreet?"

"Yes, I do. I feel that I have greatly wronged my wife, and in wronging her I have also wronged her friends and my friends and shaken the confidence which has been reposed in me."

THE UNMARRIED LADY.

"What will you say, professor, with reference to your conduct with the young lady of whom your wife's complaint makes mention?"

"I do not care to refer to her more than is necessary. All my relations with her are such as have been publicly carried on. My association with her has been indiscreet, as I have said, but nothing of a more serious nature than open attentions. The fact is, that my conduct has been greatly misrepresented and exaggerated by busybodies, who have been running to my wife upon every possible pretext, and telling her things that never transpired, and making more than the truth out of actual occurrences."

"THE LAWYER MADE ME."

"Then you think your wife was unduly influenced?"

"She undoubtedly was, and yielding to outside pressure took hasty steps. When I went home Saturday night, I heard Mrs. Wetzell crying up in her room. I went up to her and said:

"'Why, Ella, what's the matter?'

"'Oh,' said she, 'I had to swear to such awful things! The statements that the attorney had drawn up in the complaint were simply awful! I did not want to swear to them, but he said I must.'"

THE GERMANY PLAN.

"This complaint alleges, professor, that you requested a leave of absence, for the real purpose of going to Germany to marry this young lady."

"That is nonsense, of course. What would I want with a leave of absence if I were going there to stay with her and desert my wife. I did think of getting a leave of absence, it is true, but I did so because I wished to study the German methods in my profession—for that reason and that alone."

PROMISES A RECONCILIATION.

"There will be no trial," resumed the professor. "The action will be withdrawn."

"Has Mrs. Wetzell signified such an intention?"

"No, but it is in my power to effect it. My wife loves me devotedly. She declares to me that there is no one else she can love or be happy with. My repentance and her forgiveness are all that is required. I have repented, no one can know how sorrowfully and sincerely. I blame no one but myself. She will forgive me. I know that, and all I ask of my friends and her friends and the public is to do the same, and I will redeem myself."

PRIVATE AND PUBLIC PURPOSES.

"Do you wish to say anything with reference to your future course in the matter?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Wetzell, "I would like to have you assure the people of Portland and Multnomah county that there is an end of this trouble. There will be no further acts on my part to injure the love and confidence of my dear wife. I shall try to atone for my past shortcomings by renewed fidelity and devotion. I believe I can live this trouble down. My friends, though they justly have blamed me, are yet eager to encourage me in my resolution. I do want to make things right. I do want to win my way back to the high place I have held in the confidence and esteem of the people here. I do want to make my home as happy as it can be."

THE SUPERINTENDENCY.

The professor alluded with feeling to the discharge of the duties of the office of superintendent of the schools of Multnomah county; to the hard work and earnest study he has given to it, and to the pleasure he has taken in the success with which his efforts have been attended.

"I propose," he said in conclusion, "to show the people that the educational affairs of the county will be in as good hands as ever, and, if possible, more efficiently managed than ever."

How a Turkish Bath

A Turkish Bath stands unrivaled in its effects upon the skin. Stripping to a sheet in a cool room, the bather passes into the hot room, the temperature of which ranges between 140 degrees Fahrenheit, and spends a good half hour reclining there until perspiration bathes the skin. Part of this time may be passed in a hotter room, say of the temperature of 180 to 200 Fahrenheit; this is not necessary if perspiration is free. The next is shampooing, when the bather rubs and soaps and finally douches the body with warm water, and this is followed by a dash, douche or a plunge, then dried with soft towels, to be succeeded by another season in the cool room before resuming one's clothes.
